GERMAN CRUISER IS REPORTED SUNK OFF COAST OF SCOTLAND

Two British Destroyers Are Also Reported Damaged and Limping Into Leith, Scotland — Not Confirmed

FIERCE FIGHTING GOING ON IN BELGIUM NOW

Both Sides Claiming Advances in Flanders — Russians Are Offering Determined Resistance in Poland

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Dec. 21.—Persistent rumors are current that a German cruiser has been sunk off the coast of Scotland.

It is also rumored that two British destroyers arrived at Leith, Scotland, badly damaged.

There is no official confirmation of these reports.

Heaviest fighting in the west since the Germans attempted to force a way to the English channel is now in progress. French and German statements today show that yesterday's engagements were contested keenly along most of the front from Alsace to Flanders, and on each side claims are made of the capture of trenches and other important victories.

The German war office gave out what was described as a French army order signed by General Joffre and found on the body of a French soldier, calling for a general attack on the Germans. The order recites that heavy reinforcements had been received by the allies and "it is now our business to clear the fatherland of the invaders."

In Poland the Russians are offering determined resistance to the German armies which are advancing on Warsaw. Less than thirty miles from the city one of the most stubbornly contested battles of the campaign is still in progress, the Russians for three days having held in check the German column which is seeking to force a passage of the Bzura river.

Emperor William's departure for the front, announced yesterday, was said to have been decided upon against the advice of his physician, notwithstanding his improvement in health. The emperor desires to spend Christmas with his troops.

The allied fleet is reported to have begun a bombardment of the Dardanelles last Saturday. Nothing is yet known of the result.

The French parliament will sit in Paris tomorrow. About 200 members serving with the colors are returning to attend the session.

It is reported Italy has threatened a rupture of diplomatic relations with Turkey unless a satisfactory explanation is made of the threatening attitude toward Tripoli of 4,000 Arabs under Turkish and German officers.

Russians Hold 200,000 Germans at Bay on River

PETROGRAD, (Via London, Dec. 21.) Russian forces are still holding at bay the German column which is seeking to cross the Bzura river at Sochaczew and advance on Warsaw, thirty miles away. For three days this German army of about 200,000 men has been maneuvering to cross the river and throw back the Russians who are holding the right bank.

Sochaczew continues to be the German objective in the attempt to reach Warsaw. The Russian forces on the right bank of the Bzura are heavily entrenched. Their artillery is so placed that it commands the river to its junction with the Vistula, thirteen miles north. Southward the Russian line extends to Opoczno, twenty miles east of Piotrkow, which recently was evacuated, and forty-five miles east of Szczeczow, where the Russians first opposed the German extreme right.

It is pointed out that the Russians have thus assumed positions on their third line of defense. The evacuation of Lodz, which lies to the west of this line, was thus in logical sequence to the movement and, according to the general opinion here, had no bearing on the attack on Warsaw. The Russians for the present apparently are attempting nothing more than to make a stubborn and to defeat attempts at flanking movements.

West Galicia Reported Cleared of Russians Now

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The great battle west of Warsaw appears to be fought out, judging from indications in recent dispatches from Berlin and Petrograd. It appears today to have been observed that the German contention that General Von Hindenburg had scored a notable success over the Russians must be qualified. A parallel case is found in recent claims of a crushing Russian victory over Lodz, which has recently proved to be premature and exaggerated.

Hindenberg's army has advanced steadily toward the Polish capital, but the Russians in falling back appear to have taken new positions in strong entrenchments, and although the invad-

In the Wake Of the War With Corey

Christmas in the trenches will not be so bad, says Mr. Corey in his letter today. The Christmas presents for soldiers are swamping the war departments, and the folk at home are denying themselves to send bits of plum budding to the men at the front.

BY HERBERT COREY.

(Copyright, 1914, by Herbert Corey.)

LONDON, Dec. 11.—It is rather a pity that Sergeant Ogilvy, of one of the Highland regiments, is so nearly inarticulate. With all the will in the world he was unable to tell his story. He was embarrassed by questions. He would stand upon one long Scotch leg after the other, and grin a sheepish grin, and answer in monosyllables. Still, he managed to extricate one important statement from his inner being.

"Me," he said to the other man he met on Oxford street, "me, I'm Santa Claus."

In one hand he held a long list of addresses, in smeared pencilling on a dirty slip of paper. The names seemed to be mostly those of children. The rest were those of women. Sergeant Ogilvy said that his sporran—that furry bag which hangs upon the Highland center—was "juist jingin' with shullins." He had been empowered by the mates he had left behind in the trenches to buy wee things for the kiddies' Christmas.

"Nothing great," said he. "Juist so they wouldna think Santa had forgotten them."

That was three weeks ago. As soon as Oglivy had concluded this bit of work he was to start back for the lines in France as "pudden tender." When he reached that particular place on the line where his regiment is fighting he would be charged with the duty of getting to the men the plum puddings and other goodies which have been sent to them by England and by their friends. He thought that Christmas day would probably be like every other day. Fighting would go on as usual.

"We canna spare time from the job," said Ogilvy, "but Christmas night will be verry pleasant."

He didn't know, of course—not being a prophet—just what might happen on Christmas day. But he knew that the men were counting on a celebration on Christmas night. They all realized that it would be impossible to take "time off" during the day. Just so many men must be killed on that day. The commanders of neither side would consent to a truce. He doubted if the men would fight as hard as on other days—

"But ye canna tell," said he. "If the Germans pop at us, we'll juist pop back."

CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS NIGHT

When night comes, however, fighting ends, except for outbursts of shell fire here and there along the line. Even that is rare nowadays. The gunners have determined that it is mere waste of ammunition unless the range has been very accurately determined and the human target is unable to move. Searchlights play across the field, of course, in order to guard against surprises. Now and then some daring leader may attack a trench. But, broadly speaking, peace comes with darkness.

Back of the trenches the Christmas celebration may be held with less difficulty. Along the lines of communication and in the rear of the fighting lines the men are very generally billeted in barns and cottages and chateaux from which the owners have fled. Tents are being used less and less in this war. They are too easily spied by hostile aviators. Ogilvy had been told that an effort would be made to relieve the men in the trenches, so that each man should have a chance to keep either Christmas eve or Christmas night, with all the accompaniments of plum pudding and blazing brandy. But he would not commit himself to a definite statement.

"In war," said he, "it's ill tellin' what may happen."

There was a unimportant talk told the story of Christmas with the battling nations. Germany and England and France will celebrate the event in little ones. They are not to be cheated of their one great day of all the year. The men at the front are to be cheered up by messages from those at home. The Englishmen will have their plum puddings and the Germans their roast geese and the Christmas sweetmeats and pates. Those at home will keep Christmas day in sorrow. There is no getting away from reflection. The cards one sees in the windows express the national attitude—an unalterable determination, certainly that in the end all things will come right. One of these cards may be taken as typical of the rest. At the top of it hangs the reproduction of a string of signal flags. The other side carries the translation:

"I will meet the future full of faith and hope."

Within the past few weeks I have been in Germany and France. The same spirit was observable there also. The little ones—those too young to know—are to be made happy. The fighting men at the front are to be cheered. Those who wait behind can only hope.

ALL REMEMBER THE SOLDIERS.

The three nations have taken almost identical measures to insure that the gifts will reach the men on time. Two months ago Germany's war postoffice created a department to handle the Christmas business. A tremendous business sprang up in cardboard containers, which will protect almost anything breakable against ruin. England's war post service has been excellent from the outset. Many Sergeant Ogilvys will take charge of wagons filled with gifts on the day before Christmas at many points in the field. Distribution will be made on Christmas day itself, so far as that is possible. So many gifts were poured in upon the French soldiers that by the middle of December the French war post officials threw up their hands.

"We cannot handle any more Christmas gifts," said they. "We believe that every man in the field has been remembered twice or three times over."

National characteristics appear in the Christmas gifts offered for sale in the windows. Every great bakery in Eng-

WILL CLEAR ROAD OF ALL BLAME FOR SATURDAY'S WRECK

Railroad Commissioners Decline to Discuss Case, but It Is Expected They Will Report Tracks in Good Shape

OFFICERS OF ROAD JOIN IN CAREFUL INSPECTION

Believe Broken Part of Locomotive Caused Smash Which Killed Two Persons and Injured Several Others

BY LINTON K. STARR,
Staff Correspondent.

EMERSON, Ga., Dec. 21.—As a result of the examination Monday of the scene of Saturday's wreck on the Western and Atlantic railroad near Emerson, Ga., it is expected that the members of the state railroad commission will report that the ties were not rotten, as alleged; that the road is not to be criticised; and that the roadbed is in better condition than that of the average railroad.

None of the commissioners would express an opinion as to the examination. They said their report would not be made until Captain M. C. Kollock, their special investigator, reported to them.

C. Murphy Candler, chairman of the commission; Commissioners George Hillyer and Joseph F. Gray, state expert J. Prince Webster, and Captain Kollock were present for the state.

The Western and Atlantic road was represented by Attorney John L. Tye, Superintendent J. L. McCollum, Manager B. B. Carson, Assistant Superintendent J. A. Baldwin, and President John Howe Peyton. The latter did not remain during the entire investigation, but started back for Nashville in his private car.

NEW TIES LAID LAST YEAR.

W. H. Higgins, of Acworth, supervisor of the railroad, was present, and said the crossties at the scene of the wreck were laid under his supervision last May; moreover, he said, these ties were laid for a distance of a mile, and new ballast put between them.

He said the rail at the point where the wreck occurred, laid on a four degree curve with a six-inch elevation, was four years old. He said the rails were 2 1-2 inches wide, and that had been worn, on the curve, about three-fourths of an inch. He said that it could have been worn for half an inch more before becoming unsafe.

He spoke of the work of the road in keeping ties and the tracks in good condition, saying that 125,000 ties and 38 miles of track had been laid new within the past six months.

The company officials had no solution to offer as to the cause of the wreck, but were inclined to the idea that something went wrong with the engine. They point out that Engineer Gus Manning, just before the engine left the track, told one of the firemen "Something's happened to the engine."

ENGINE ACCIDENT?

That one of the driving rods on the rear wheels might have broken was thought impossible, as the rest of the engine left the track first. In fact, the front trucks of the iron monster remained on the tracks; the rest of the engine, rear end twisted downward, lies at the foot of a seventy-five-foot bank.

No effort has been made by the railroad officials to burn any of the shattered crossties. The ties with which passengers, survivors of the wreck, declared Saturday night in Atlanta to be rotten. These are piled up near the tracks, and will be kept there purposely, the officials state, for the inspection of anyone. It is thought that the members of the state commission found these ties to be new and entirely sound, although none of the members will yet express an opinion.

Because of the great weight of engine and cars dragged over them, many of the ties are shattered into splinters.

A THREE-HOUR INSPECTION.

The investigators, who reached Atlanta early Monday on a special train, arrived at the scene of the wreck, one mile on the Atlanta side of Emerson, tomorrow o'clock in the morning. The investigation continued for three hours, after which the officials and the commissioners returned to Atlanta.

Captain Kollock, the commission's special investigator, remained on the scene. He started at once to examine six miles of the track, starting at the wreck in one direction; tomorrow he will examine another six miles, starting at the wreck in the other direction. At the end of this examination, which will be careful one, he will report to the commission and the commission will make its public report.

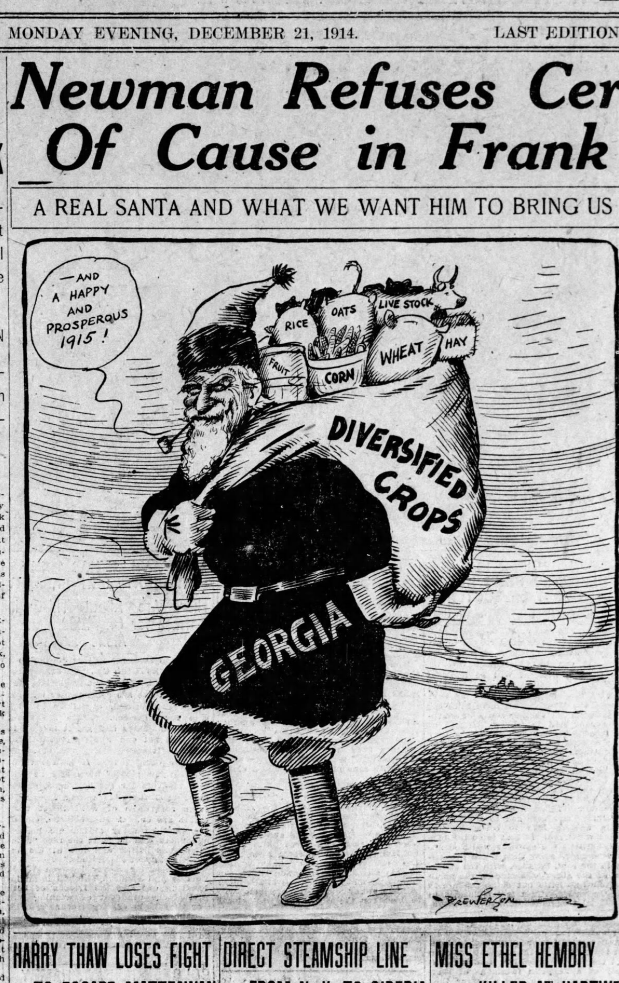
Newman Refuses Certificate Of Cause in Frank Appeal

A REAL SANTA AND WHAT WE WANT HIM TO BRING US



ATTORNEYS TO TAKE APPEAL TO JUSTICES U. S. SUPREME COURT

Judge Newman Was Willing to Allow Appeal, but Declined to Sign a Certificate Setting Out "Probable Cause"

INDIVIDUAL JUSTICES WILL BE APPEALED TO

Frank's Attorneys Leave Monday Afternoon to Ask Justice Lamar to Certify Writ of Error to Court

Judge William T. Newman, of the United States district court, Monday afternoon, after having heard at length from Leo Frank's attorneys and from Attorney General Warren Grice and Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey, representing the state, declined to certify Frank's appeal in the case, his decision refusing Frank a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge Newman stated that he was willing to allow the appeal but could not, in view of his decision in denying the writ, issue a certificate to the effect that he felt that there was probable cause for appeal, such a certificate being required by the act of congress of 1908 in appeals in habeas corpus cases.

Attorneys Henry C. Peeples and Harry A. Alexander, representing Frank, stated to The Journal that Judge Newman's action was in effect a denial of their motion for an appeal, as in the absence of the required certificate the United States supreme court would not put the case on its calendar.

However, they announced that at once, perhaps during the afternoon, some of Frank's attorneys would leave for Washington to lay the case before Justice Lamar in an effort to have him certify an appeal, which would place the case on the calendar of the supreme court. Should Justice Lamar deny their petition they will apply to other justices, in fact they will follow the same procedure as they did when they sought a writ of error on the decision of the state supreme court of errors, overruling their motion to set aside the verdict.

NEWMAN'S ORDER.

Judge Newman's formal order denying the appeal follows:

"In the district court of the United States for the northern district of Georgia.

"Ex parte Leo M. Frank.

"Petition for writ of habeas corpus, October term, 1914.

"The above styled petition having been presented to the court and by order and judgment heretofore made, the prayer of the same for the issuance of the writ of habeas corpus having been denied, and the petitioner having filed his petition for the allowance of an appeal with the certificate attached to the supreme court of the United States, together with an assignment of errors upon the said order and judgment;

"The court declines to grant the appeal prayed upon the ground that having refused to grant over the issuance of the writ of habeas corpus because the court was of the opinion that under the facts set forth in the petition for the writ and the exhibits attached thereto and referred to therein and made a part of the petition, and under the law applicable thereto, if the writ were granted and the hearing given the petitioner could not be discharged from custody, and no relief could be granted thereunder, and that the petitioner was not entitled to the writ, he court could not, consistently therewith, make the certificate required by the act of congress of March 3, 1891, which is necessary for the allowance of an appeal, to wit: that there is probable cause for such allowance of appeal.

"This 21st day of December, 1914.

"WILLIAM T. NEWMAN,
"U. S. District Judge."

In denying the certificate Judge Newman said:

"I would be very glad if this appeal could be heard by the United States supreme court and that court pass upon it, but I believe when I denied the writ of habeas corpus I disqualified myself from certifying that there was probable cause for the appeal. I do not think there is such cause."

Judge Newman's order denying the appplication for a writ of habeas corpus follows:

"The petition of Leo M. Frank for a writ of habeas corpus directed to C. Wheeler Mangum, sheriff and ex-officio jailer of Fulton county, Georgia, having been presented to the court with the exhibits attached thereto, and there being also exhibited to the court and considered by it a copy of the petition for new trial referred to therein, and a copy of the opinion of the supreme court of the state of Georgia rendered to in paragraph eleven thereof, both of which exhibits have been identified by the court and ordered filed, and the court having also considered the said petition and said exhibits and said copy of the motion for a new trial and of said opinion of the supreme court of Georgia, the court finds that the facts alleged and shown are insufficient, under the law applicable thereto, to authorize the issuance of the writ; and the court being of the opinion, from the allegations and facts stated in the petition and the exhibits and in said copy of the motion for new trial and of the opinion of the supreme court of Georgia, under the law applicable thereto, that if the writ be granted and a hearing given, the petitioner could not be discharged from custody, and no relief granted thereunder; and that petitioner is not entitled thereto.

"It is ordered and adjudged by the

HARRY THAW LOSES FIGHT TO ESCAPE MATTEAWAN

U. S. Supreme Court Orders Prisoner Returned to New York for Trial

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Harry K. Thaw lost his fight in the supreme court of the United States today against being extradited from New Hampshire to New York. The court held that the celebrated prisoner should be turned over immediately to the New York authorities to answer an indictment now pending in the state of Matteawan asylum.

Whether his escape, while, as his counsel contended, he was insane, constituted a crime, and other questions, the court dismissed with the comment that they could not enter into a habeas corpus proceeding and that they were proper issues for the state of New York to decide.

Actually, the celebrated Thaw case—the killing of Stanford White—was not before the court. Merely the question of returning him on the conspiracy question was up for decision.

Thaw's attorneys said they were open to Thaw's counsel to prevent his return to the state where he was twice tried and had made many futile efforts to be released, those familiar with the legal procedure were at a loss to forecast.

To those who have followed the case it seemed that the fight against returning to New York was lost and that nothing remained but for the sheriff of Coos county, New Hampshire, to turn Thaw over to New York officers upon the extradition which was granted by the governor of New Hampshire, but stayed by the decision of Justice Aldrich which was today reversed.

ESCAPED AUGUST, 1913.

On August 17, 1913, Thaw escaped from the Matteawan insane hospital. Charged with a conspiracy to escape, he was arrested in New Hampshire. He was indicted in New York on that charge and application for his extradition was made to New Hampshire. By tradition was ordered by the governor of New Hampshire, but on habeas corpus proceedings in the federal district court, Judge Aldrich held Thaw should be released.

Justice Holmes announced the court's unanimous decision today. He first overruled the contention that it was not a crime for a man confined in an insane asylum to walk out if he could, and that, therefore, a conspiracy to do so was not a crime.

"We do not regard it as open to debate, that the withdrawal, by connivance, of a man from an insane asylum, to which he had been committed, as Thaw was, did tend to obstruct the due administration of the law.

"At least, the New York courts may so decide. Therefore, the indictment charges a crime. If there is any remote defect in the earlier proceedings by which Thaw was committed, which we are far from intimating, this is not the time and place for that question to be tried."

The decision further says:

"The statute that declares an act done by a lunatic not a crime, adds that a person is not excused from criminal liability except upon proof that at the time he was laboring under such defect of reason as: 1—not to know the nature and quality of the act he was doing; or, 2—not to know that the act was wrong."

"The inmates of lunatic asylums are largely governed, it has been remarked, by appeal to the same motives that govern other men, and it well might be that a man who was insane and dangerous, nevertheless, in many directions understood the nature and quality of his acts as well, and was as open to be affected by the motives of the criminal law as anybody else.

"We regard it as too clear for lengthy discussion that Thaw should be delivered up at once."

Thaw Makes No Comment On Decision of Court

(By Associated Press.)

MANCHESTER, N. H., Dec. 21.—Harry K. Thaw received without comment today the announcement of the supreme court's action. He has been staying here for the last three months.

DIRECT STEAMSHIP LINE FROM N. Y. TO SIBERIA

New Route Has Been Opened by Way of Panama Canal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Direct steamship service between New York and Vladivostok, Siberia, by way of the Panama canal, already has begun and two steamers already have passed through the canal with cargoes of general manufactured goods and merchandise. The new line is 10,100 miles long, but is 3,000 miles shorter than the route from New York to Vladivostock by way of the Suez canal. Consequently a ten-knot vessel saves twelve and a half days at sea.

The beginning of a new trade between Peru and England by way of the canal is indicated in the passage through the waterway of two steamships laden with saw sugar, the first shipments through the canal of whole cargoes of sugar from Peru.

The Panama canal authorities have announced the cable address "Isthmian, Balboa Heights," as sufficient for any cable messages concerning steamship business with the isthmus. Likewise the address "Isthmian, Washington," is announced as sufficient to secure the proper delivery of messages to the canal offices in this city.

In deference to protests from shipping interests the canal authorities have decided to waive the requirement that vessels furnish copies of their manifest when passing through the canal. The practice of the Suez canal requiring only a general statement of cargo will be followed.

HOWARD WILL VOTE FOR PROHIBITION AMENDMENT

Majority of Georgia Delegation Will Support Hobson, Is Belief

BY RALPH SMITH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Congressman Howard declared today that he would vote for the Hobson nation-wide prohibition amendment, submitting the question to the people. He resents statements circulated in Georgia to the effect that he would oppose prohibition. It is not known certainly how all the members of the delegation will vote, but the impression is that a majority will support the amendment. Congressman Adamson last week made a speech explaining his opposition to the amendment as an infringement of states' rights.

The vote will be taken tomorrow night after six hours' debate.

court that said petition for a writ of habeas corpus be, and the same is hereby, refused; to which ruling and refusal petitioner, by his counsel excepts.

This 21st day of December, 1914."

ARGUMENTS ALLOWED.

When court convened at 10 o'clock Monday morning Judge Newman formally passed the order denying the application for a writ of habeas corpus, after which he announced that he would hear from both Frank's attorney's and state's counsel on the motion for an appeal.

"I want you gentlemen," said the judge, "to discuss the proposition of whether there is anything on which the court can properly certify to an appeal."

Henry C. Peeples, of Frank's counsel, was heard first. He contended that the history of the law shows and decisions hold that judges have no discretion in such cases, even if the grounds upon which the motion is brought are frivolous.

"In my opinion this appeal is not frivolous. The famous Durand case, which has been mentioned in connection with this case, was appealed to the United States supreme court and entertained by that body, although the grounds upon which it was appealed were purely frivolous."

Attorney General Grice, for the state, opposed the granting of the motion for an appeal and contended that the questions at issue had already been adjudicated by the state courts.

"These courts," he said "and even the United States supreme court have looked into this claim by Frank that his constitutional rights have been violated, and these courts have held that he had not been denied due process of law. He is not entirely remediless, even if this court denies his motion for an appeal. He can still go before the justices of the United States supreme court in an effort to get such an appeal before the supreme court. Therefore, this court should not put this case in position where there can be a further delay of perhaps a year in the execution of the judgment of the state courts."

"Why do you say it may take a year to get a hearing?" inquired Judge Newman.

"Because," replied the attorney general, "the United States supreme court dislikes to advance any cause, even though such an advance is asked by a state. If it advanced all the cases in which the states are interested months, and perhaps years, would be required to hear them."

DORSEY'S REMARKS.

Solicitor Dorsey, also representing the state, made the most extended argument. He declared that if the court certified the appeal it would do so in the face of decisions by two superior court judges, two decisions by the Georgia supreme court and a decision by the full bench of the United States supreme court.

He said that the same point involved here—that of Frank's absence from the court room at the time of the rendition of the verdict against him—had been embodied in the motion for a new trial, although it had been only narrowed there and not set down as a federal constitutional point.

"We abundantly disposed of this allegation of mob influence before Judge Roan at the time Frank made his motion for a new trial," said the solicitor, "and we satisfactorily disposed of the allegation before every court in which it has been urged. We showed by witnesses that some of the alleged demonstrations in the court room during Frank's trial and none of those alleged to have occurred in the streets near the court house, ever came to the attention of the jury. Every member of the jury made an affidavit to this effect."

FRIVOLOUS, SAYS PEEPLES.

Solicitor Dorsey urged that in the event the court certify the appeal he include in his certificate the record showing how the state met and disposed of the allegations of disorder at the trial. To this Mr. Peeples demurred, saying that he considered the proposition of the solicitor as altogether frivolous.

"An effort is being made here," said Mr. Dorsey, "to delay the execution of the state law."

"If I thought so," interposed Judge Newman, "I would forthwith deny the appeal."

Mr. Dorsey read at length from the record of the case, quoting extracts from the evidence and from the various motions and decisions.

In conclusion Mr. Dorsey said:

"You honor, this is trifling with the court. I mean no reflection on counsel for the applicant, but I refer to the proposition as a matter of law.

"Instead of treating him with lighter consideration the courts have given Leo Frank greater consideration than any other man ever convicted of crime in Georgia.

"They ask that you by certifying this appeal and stating that there is probable cause to force the United States supreme court to docket and hear it under the act of 1908, requiring that a certificate for appeal set out that there is probable cause.

"If there ever was a case which the act of 1908 was made to cover it is this one, which has been adjudicated by every court before which it has been brought, including yourself. Frank still has the right, if you deny the appeal, to go up and ask the supreme court to go into his point."

Mr. Peeples followed Mr. Dorsey in a brief argument. He stated that Frank had never had a hearing on the point at issue except in the Georgia supreme court, and he said the defense contends that Frank has not had due process of law. "If your honor feels that this application is purely frivolous, then it is your duty to deny it."

Judge Newman replied by saying that if he had felt that there was merit in the application he would not have denied it.

ers are within two or three days march of Warsaw, there is good reason to believe much hard fighting must take place before it can be determined whether the German attempt will be successful.

Along the southern frontier of east Prussia the Russians claim to have the upper hand, but further south in southern Poland and in Galicia, leaders of the Austro-German forces declare they are sweeping the Russians before them. They assert they have cleared all the Russians out of west Galicia. That means that the long siege of Cracow has been relieved and that if the German success continues Przemsyl may be relieved soon also.

Emperor William has recovered from his illness and returned to the front, Berlin advices lead to belief he has turned westward. If that is so the battle conditions the emperor will find are far less spectacular than those prevailing in the east, because, with the exception of the allies' offensive on the north of their line little but siege warfare is being recorded. That is emphasized in all official communications which measure the day's gain in scant yards and chronicle the gain or loss of a trench as an achievement.

A neutral traveler who reached London today from Berlin expressed belief that the Germans are not thinking seriously of a Zeppelin invasion of England. According to that observer they regard the apprehension and the precautions against Zeppelin attacks taken in London and other English cities as a great joke.

Allies Are Gaining Slowly But Surely Along Entire Line

PARIS, Dec. 21.—Progress all along the line is claimed in the French official statement given out in Paris this afternoon. There is not a single mention of a German success or a French repulse. Gains, although slight, are recorded in Belgium, between the Lys and the Aisne; in the Champagne country and in the Argonne.

At one point an advance of 1,200 yards is recorded, and at another the French made 500 yards.

Progress has been made between the Argonne and the Meuse, on the right bank of the Meuse, and on the heights of the Meuse.

The French heavy artillery is described as having been successful on the Aisne, near Rheims and elsewhere.

The text of the communication follows:

"The day of December 20 brought nothing of importance in Belgium, if exception is made of some progress in the region of Lombaertzyde and St. Georges, and as a point to the southeast of the Inn of Kortaker, which is southeast of Biaschoote; the occupation of some houses in Watelem, south of Zillebeke, and the bombardment by the enemy of the Ypres hospital.

"Between the Lys and the Aisne we have occupied a forest near the route between Nouleltes and Souchez and we also took possession of all the first line of German trenches between this highway and the first houses of Notre Dame de Lorette, south of Loos.

"The enemy has bombarded Arras.

"Our heavy artillery silenced on repeated occasions the artillery of the enemy to the north of Carnoy, which is to the east of Albert. This artillery also demolished the German trenches, and sent head over heels two cannon of a battery established near Hom, which is to the southeast of Carnoy. The heavy artillery also secured distinct advantages on the Aisne and the Sector of Rheims. In Champagne, in the region of Prosnes, Perthes and Beausejour, as well as in the Argonne, we made along our entire front appreciable advances. This is particularly so to the northeast of Beausejour, where we won and occupied 1,200 yards of the enemy's trenches. In the forest of La Grurie we blew up four mined saps and we established ourselves in the positions thus made.

"Between the Argonne and the Meuse there has been no progress along all the front, particularly in the region of Varennes, where the brook of Chepies has been left 500 yards in our rear and in the region of Gercourt—Bethincourt.

"On the right bank of the Meuse we have gained ground at La Croupe; at a point two kilometers northwest of Brabant, and in the forest of Consenveye.

"Finally, on the heights of the Meuse we have made slight progress in the forest Des Chevaliers to the northeast of the fort of Coyon."

Scandinavian Alliance May Aid Allies' Cause

PETROGRAD, via London, Dec. 21.—The Russian press is convinced that formation of a Scandinavian triple alliance may be announced at any time, as the result of the conference last week of Kings Haakon, Gustave and Christian.

The newspapers believe such an alliance could not possibly be a source of danger to Russia and would allay all apprehension about the possible pro-German sympathies of Sweden.

THEATERS

Christmas week's Forsyth bill promises to be one of the most interesting and decidedly the most entertaining of the season that has been such a brilliant success.

The headliner will be Eddie Leonard, the minstrel star, assisted by pretty Mable Russell in a series of original songs and dances. Lillian Herlein, the stunning prima donna, who has figured prominently in a number of the best musical productions, will be another special feature, as will the troupe of Abou Ben Hamid's hirlwind Arabs. Another card will be "On the School Playgrounds," a miniature musical comedy, with nine pretty girls and a clever comedian.

Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock seats will be placed on sale at the Atlanta theater for the big Christmas day attraction, Miss Percy Haswell, in "Green Stockings." Miss Haswell and her company will rest here three days, arriving Monday afternoon from New York. The company includes many gifted players and the presentation Christmas is sure to make a big hit. Mail orders indicate many out-of-town people will be here for the attraction, while local reservations are large. Miss Haswell will appear only at the matinee and night performances Christmas day, leaving the next morning for New Orleans, where she will play an extended engagement.

THOMASVILLE HAS MANY CANDIDATES IN PRIMARY

There Are About Thirty in Race for City Alderman Alone

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Dec. 21.—In the primary to be held for city officials here Tuesday there are some rather unusual features presented, especially in the race for aldermen. There are about thirty candidates and yet it is safe to say that not one whole ticket will be voted as it stands. Every voter seems to have decided that it is a sort of "go as you please" race and he will cast his vote for the best men, or for his special favorites among the candidates regardless of what ticket their names are on. C. M. Robinson, one of the candidates for aldermanic honors, announces that he is in the race "uninvited, unsolicited and not at the request of any of his friends."

The race for mayor between W. E. Beverly and Fondren Mitchell is an interesting one and the friends of both parties are confident of winning out. For the offices of city treasurer, chief of police and sexton there are three candidates for each and there will also be a race on for members of the board of education, four of whom are to be elected.

COLONEL R. E. A. HAMBY NEW MAYOR OF CLAYTON

CLAYTON, Ga., Dec. 21.—At the regular municipal election for the purpose of electing a mayor and five councilmen for next year Colonel R. E. A. Hamby received twice as many votes as his opponent, Judge James F. Smith, for mayor.

Thomas A. Duckett, John H. Derrick and Colonel Grover L. Bynum were elected without opposition for councilmen. Henry Cannon, who was opposed by M. B. Burton, and Dr. James A. Green, who was opposed by F. D. Singleton for councilmen, were elected by a majority of twenty-six and seventeen votes, respectively. These officers will take the oath of office and enter upon their duties on January 1, 1915, to serve for one year. Captain W. T. Dozier, the present mayor, did not offer for re-election.

EXTRA POLICEMEN WILL WORK DURING HOLIDAYS

All Parts of City Will Be Patrolled, Including Remote Sections

Beginning Monday night and continuing through the Christmas holidays the residence sections of the city will be patrolled by an augmented force of policemen. Thirty-four additional officers will be on duty every night between the hours of 9 p. m. and 6 a. m. and it is expected that there will immediately be a great decrease in the number of burglaries and hold ups.

The thirty-four men, comprising twenty-three supernumerary policemen and eleven members of the regular vice squad, will be apportioned to the residence sections of the various wards. This apportionment has been made by Captain W. M. Mayo, who says:

"Policemen will be seen in Atlanta tonight where they have never been seen before. I believe that with the addition of the twenty-three supernumeraries to the force for patroling residence sections during the night hours, the force will be sufficient to keep down crime in Atlanta. I look for fewer highway robberies and burglaries than in the past few weeks."

The First ward will have four policemen, instead of only two, as heretofore. Ansley Park will have two special policemen assigned to patrol duty there, where heretofore this resident section of the city has been left unguarded. Druid Hills will have six policemen, instead of only two.

The patrol of the Second ward has been increased by two policemen, making a total of four; the Third ward, increased by four, making a total of six; the Fourth ward by four, making six; the Fifth ward by four, making six; the Sixth ward by four, making six; the Seventh ward by one, making three; the Eighth ward by four, making six, and the Ninth ward has been increased by four, making a total of eight patrolmen. There has been no increase in the patrol of two policemen in the Tenth ward, as in this section, Captain Mayo states, there has been very little crime.

Mercury Is Expected To Go Below Freezing On Longest Night

Daylight dawned just the fraction of a second later than on any of the other 364 days, twilight will creep down a bit sooner than it did on Sunday or will on Tuesday. From now on the days will lengthen, but so gradually that it will be imperceptible.

Fog and mist are aiding in making Monday seem shorter than even the shortest day warranted. The muggy weather which caused the lights of the Great White Way to burn as early as 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, increased if anything in thickness; but C. F. von Herrmann, the weather man, held out hope with a prediction of clearer Tuesday.

"It's unsettled all over the country," he said, "but I think the bad weather will lessen Monday night, the longest night of the year, and the mercury will drop, probably below freezing. Of course, it's still rather early to make a Christmas prediction; but conditions are favorable for fine weather Friday."

SAMUEL M. INMAN IS TAKEN TO OWN HOME

Samuel M. Inman, whose recent serious illness at the home of his son, Frank M. Inman, 1069 Peachtree road, has been the source of concern to his many friends, was so improved Sunday that he was removed to his own home, 552 Peachtree street.

Fire Damages Roof

While the family of M. B. Grant, 68 Arizona avenue, were at breakfast Monday morning, fire, thought to have been caused by a defective flue, blazed out on the roof. The department was called and the flames extinguished. The roof was damaged to the extent of about $1,500.

MAYOR'S ATTITUDE KILLS INTEREST IN BOND PLAN

To Be Presented to Council Monday Afternoon for a Formal Vote

The ordinance to call a $3,000,000 bond election on March 2 will be presented to the city council Monday afternoon. Interest in the fight for bonds, however, has waned since Mayor James G. Woodward has let it be known that he will not approve a bond ordinance drafted by this year's council.

Several objections to the plan have been advanced by the mayor. First, he says he doubts the legality of the 1914 council calling an election in 1915.

Second, he considers that the council, which calls the election, should also supervise the spending of the money derived from the probable issue. Third, he says the matter could be handled almost as quickly by the 1915 council if it favors a bond election.

As a result of the mayor's attitude the action of council Monday afternoon on the bond question will be comparatively unimportant, since there is practically no chance of this year's council, at its final meeting on the first Monday in January, overriding an executive veto.

TWO MURDER CASES ON CALL AT DOTHAN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DOTHAN, Ala., Dec. 21.—Two murder cases are expected to come up for trial at the special term of circuit court for Houston county which has been called for January 25 by Judge H. A. Pearce.

Grady Pilcher, former policeman, will be tried on a charge of killing Lunsford Love, and Malcolm Ingram for killing Zollie Bryson, a negro.

BOY INJURED WHEN AUTO SKIDS AND HITS CAR

Young Macon Lad Receives Very Painful Cut on Forehead

Robert Dixon, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dixon, of Macon, received a painful cut on the forehead, when the automobile of his uncle, W. J. Dabney, of the Dabney Implement company, skidded on the slippery pavement and struck a trolley car.

The accident occurred about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Broad and Hunter streets.

According to Mrs. Dabney, who was in the machine, the negro chauffeur to avoid striking a car turning into Broad applied his brakes and the car skidded, striking the steps of another trolley. The auto, she says, was not going faster than five miles an hour.

In the car was the chauffeur and five passengers, including Mrs. Dixon, who is visiting Mrs. Dabney.

Robert Dixon was rushed in the machine, which was only slightly damaged, to the Grady hospital, where his hurt was dressed, and then he was carried to the Dabney residence at Decatur. While the cut across the forehead is deep and painful, it is not thought to be serious.

There will be three boxing bouts and a battle royal, with Lou Castro acting as referee. In the main bout will be seen Jimmie Pappas, the local lad, who put up a good fight against Kid Herrmann, of New Orleans, recently. He will be matched with another good boy.

SICK WIFE NOT TOLD OF HUSBAND'S DEATH

Doctors Fear Shock of W. D. Owens' Death Would Be Too Great for Widow

Fearing the shock would be too great, physicians of Mrs. Lucy Candler Owens, the only daughter of Asa G. Candler, have ordered that she be kept in ignorance of the fact that her husband, William D. Owens, died Sunday morning at 3:30 o'clock.

This order has been carried out to the letter, and Mrs. Owens still believed her husband living Monday. Mrs. Owens is ill with typhoid fever; Mr. Owens died of typhoid-pneumonia, contracted while his wife was ill.

The funeral of Mr. Owens, who was cashier of the Central Bank and Trust corporation for years, will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of Asa G. Candler, 63 Elizabeth street. Bishop Warren A. Candler, uncle of Mrs. Owens, will conduct the services. Officers of the bank will act as pallbearers. The body will be placed in a temporary resting vault. The services will be private.

Mr. Owens, a man of widespread popularity and of marked business and banking ability, came to Atlanta when twenty years old, from his home in Nassau county, Florida. He became connected with the Central bank as assistant cashier, and later was promoted to cashier, a position which he held since, during the great growth of the bank, up to the time of his death.

He was a Mason, and prominent in Georgia Masonic circles. In Atlanta and throughout the south Mr. Owens' reputation as a banker and as a friend was enviable. He was a steward of the Inman Park Methodist church.

Mr. Owens was married to Miss Lucy Candler, only daughter of Asa G. Candler, niece of Judge John S. Candler and Bishop Warren A. Candler.

Besides his widow, two young children survive Mr. Owens—Lucy, eleven years old, and William D. Owens, Jr., three years old. Mr. Owens is also survived by his mother, who was at his bedside when he died; three brothers, John S. Owens, Linton Owens and Milton Owens, all of Florida; two sisters, Mrs. D. H. Willis, of Ty Ty, Ga., and Mrs. Wilson Callahan, of Florida.

At noon Monday the doors of the Central Bank and Trust corporation close out of respect to the memory of Mr. Owens.

FLAMES DESTROY HOME OF MRS. G. B. ADAIR

Former Atlanta Woman Near Death in Incendiary Fire Near Washington

Atlanta friends and relatives will be shocked to learn of the supposedly incendiary fire which destroyed early Sunday morning the magnificent home of Mrs. G. B. Adair, near Washington, Ga.

Mrs. Adair, according to accounts to neighbors, was on the first floor when the flames broke out. The flames had consumed the stairway to the ground, and she was in a perilous position. Her sons, Green B., Marsh, and Spencer Adair, crawled through the back windows and brought their mother to safety.

Recent threats made by negro employes and servants led to the belief that the fire was incendiary. The damage was estimated at $20,000. One-fourth of this is said to be covered by insurance.

Following the death of G. B. Adair, Sr., Mrs. Adair and her three sons moved from Atlanta to Wilkes county, near Washington, eight months ago. They purchased the old Sutton estate, and spent much money in improving and renovating the house.

Dispatches from Washington Monday say that two negroes, recently discharged by the Adairs, were arrested Sunday afternoon and placed in jail.

REV. R. J. WILLINGHAM IS DEAD IN RICHMOND

Apoplexy Fatal to Aged Secretary of Baptist Foreign Mission Board

(By Associated Press.)

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 21.—Rev. Robert J. Willingham, D. D., general secretary of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, died here Sunday after having been stricken with apoplexy two hours before while on his way home from church services. He was sixty years old.

Dr. Willingham was widely known in church circles throughout the country. He became secretary of the foreign mission board of his church in 1893 and for several years had lived in Richmond. He was educated at the University of Georgia and the Southern Theological seminary at Louisville, Ky.

The minister was born in Beaufort District, South Carolina. He is survived by his wife, who was Corneille Bacon, of Macon, Ga., five sons and four daughters. Dr. Willingham had served as pastor of churches in Talbotton, Ga., Chattanooga, Tenn., and Memphis, Tenn.

REV. JOHN S. CALLAWAY IS CALLED BY DEATH

Well-Known Baptist Minister Succumbs at Age of 77 Years

Rev. John Sanders Callaway, for fifty years a minister of the Baptist church, died at the home of John Cox, at Carter's Grove, Ga., Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. He was seventy-seven years old.

Perhaps no preacher in the state was more generally known and widely loved than Dr. Callaway. He is said to have married more couples and baptized more persons than any other man in Georgia. More than 100 couples in the city of Atlanta alone have been started on their journey together through life with the benediction of Dr. Callaway.

Immediately after the Civil war, throughout which he served as a member of Longstreet's famous brigade, Dr. Callaway entered the Baptist ministry. For several years he was a professor at Mercer university, then situated at Penfield, Ga., his home.

He had been pastor of the Bethesda Baptist church since his ordination fifty years ago. He was also pastor of three other churches, the Penfield Baptist church, the Carter's Grove church and the County Line Baptist church.

He was an uncle of M. L. Brittain, state school commissioner, and of W. H. Brittain, president of the J. M. High company. Surviving him are his wife and eight children, R. M. and W. R. Callaway, of Atlanta; R. B. and J. S. Callaway, Jr., of Bremen, Ga.; Mrs. J. P. Waldrop, of Athens, Ga.; Mrs. T. E. Brown, of Bremen, Ga.; Mrs. E. R. Boswell, of Penfield, and Mrs. Ben Drake, of Union Point, Ga. He also leaves a number of realtives in LaGrange, Ga.

The funeral will be held from the old Mercer chapel at Penfield Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. C. A. Owens, of Humboldt, Tenn., will conduct the services in compliance with the expressed wish of Dr. Callaway. Interment will be in the Penfield cemetery.

FREE SUNDAY MOVIES SWELL CHARITY FUND

Performances at Grand and Forsyth Theaters Prove Wonderful Success

All Atlanta records for benefit shows were surpassed Sunday by the two performances given by the Atlanta Moving Picture Trades club at the Forsyth and Grand theaters.

More than $706 was obtained through voluntary contributions, according to Joseph L. Marentette, chairman of the committee on arrangements. This is said to be more than was ever taken in at any similar charity performance.

All of this money will be applied to giving Christmas cheer to Atlanta's poor and needy. The committee has cooperated with Associated Charities and the city warden's office to secure a list of worthy poor folk, and hundreds will be given food and clothing.

It seemed as though all Atlanta swarmed to the Grand and Forsyth between the hours of 2 in the afternoon and 10 at night. Despite the rain and the fog there was a continual stream of people passing through the doors of the two theaters, with many more standing in the lobbies waiting for their turn.

And it was worth it. Never were such motion pictures shown in Atlanta before. They were all first-run films and each selected with a view to giving the best the screen world offers. The crowd thoroughly enjoyed all the pictures, not one of which was shown twice.

The vaudeville acts were also of first-class caliber. At the Forsyth, Frank Wion, Joe Mullin, Leighton Brown, Charles Reynard, Auremia, Howard Winburn, William Shale and Charles Johnson put on a bill that was worthy of the biggest "big time."

At the Grand there was another equally as good, with Mrs. Frank Pearson, Yorke and King, Jack Lamey, Joe Coombs, Alex Sater and his sister, Loftin and Bates, Kircher and Browning, the Gallagher company, Ines Ader, the Lynch trio, the Harmony True Quartet, and others furnishing the entertainment.

Mr. Marentette said Monday that the show was the most successful of its kind ever staged in Atlanta. He wished to extend the heartiest thanks to Hugh Cardoza and Jake Wells for the use of the Forsyth; to Arthur Hyman and Phil Harbour for the Grand; to the Greenwood Theatrical agency and all the vaudeville performers; to the musicians, the ushers, the stage hands and everybody who so willingly contributed to the success of the day.

STATE BOARD OF PAROLE IS URGED FOR ALABAMA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 21.—Creation of a state board of parole and substitution of the indeterminate sentence for the fixed sentence in felony cases were recommended by Robert C. Brickell, attorney general, in his biennial report. GERMAN LADS WANT TO FIGHT FOR FATHERLAND

Broke, They Start on Long Hike From Atlanta to New York

Declaring their one desire was to fight and die for "the fatherland," two husky lads—German, every inch of them—strode into the police station Saturday night and asked for a bed for the night.

They are Edward Wagner, twenty-four years old, and Fritz Vieghler, twenty-one. Their home is in Lubeck, on the Neustadt bay, in the Baltic region. They are sailors.

Landing in New York shortly after the outbreak of the war, they found themselves unable to return to Germany. All gateways were closed to them. Then Wagner had an idea. He spoke Norwegian fairly well and decided to try to get to that country.

He went to the docks and with his friend, Vieghler, secured passage as a sailor. Pretty soon the captain, a Norwegian, came to them and after questioning them closely, refused to allow them to embark, fearing that they would be taken prisoners by the allies' outposts. Despite the protests of the boys and their willingness to take the chance, they were put ashore.

Work in New York was scarce and hard to obtain. The boys found a ship to Jacksonville, Fla., and eagerly went to work.

Knowing little of this continent, the boys hoped to find in Jacksonville, perhaps, a ship that could take them back to some neutral port from which they could get to Germany.

In Jacksonville a mishap to their ship threatened to delay them indefinitely. No ships could be found plying a transcontinental trade out of Jacksonville.

Delayed but undaunted, the youths started on a walk back to New York. They made the walk from Macon to Atlanta in less than forty-eight hours, so earnest and eager are they.

Five cents was the total sum of money possessed by the two when they stepped into the police station Saturday night, but that was of little consequence to them. Bigger problems than the price of their next meal awaited them. Their one hope, one ambition was to get back to "the Fatherland."

"Don't you know you'll likely be killed when you do get there? Aren't you afraid that the forces of the kaiser will be wiped from the face of the earth?" they were asked.

"We expect to die," replied Friz, "but Germany will not die. She will defeat the world. She cannot be beaten."

And in their eyes, blue and clear, shone the zeal of the patriot.

Sunday morning, bright and early, they went out and with The Atlanta Journal-New York Herald road signs as their guides, their heels commenced a steady beat and the miles separating them from the south slowly increased.

MRS. MARY E. SPENCER DIES AT AGE OF 84 YEARS

Funeral Service for Pioneer Atlanta Woman Will Be Held Tuesday Afternoon

After a week's illness, Mrs. Mary E. Spencer died Monday morning at the residence of Harry Alexander, 52 Park lane, Ansley Park, at the age of eighty-four years.

Spencer, one of the first mayors of Atlanta, and for many years prominent in the legal and civic life of the city. She was one of the oldest members of the Central Presbyterian church.

Funeral services will be held from the residence Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden will officiate, assisted by Dr. J. S. Lyons. Interment will be in Oakland.

T. S. JOHNSON'S HOME ROBBED OF CLOTHING

T. S. Johnson, of 35 Rosser street, West End, reported to the police Monday that his house was burglarized while every one was away from home, between 2 and 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Clothing valued at $50 was reported missing. Mr. Johnson furnished the police with a good description of the burglar, given him by a neighbor who saw the thief, a white man, enter the house, but supposed he was one of the family.

RIVAL MEXICAN FACTIONS STILL HOLD POSITIONS

General Bliss, From Naco, Ariz., Reports Situation Is Unchanged

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Brigadier General Bliss, at Naco, Arizona, today reported that the rival Mexican factions continued holding their positions. He made no mention of any shots falling on American soil.

American Consul Silliman at Mexico City today transmitted a message sent by Maytorena, Villa commander at Naco, to Provisional President Gutierrez, stating his intention of moving his forces away from the American border. Saturday, he said, his forces refused to return fire to avoid shooting into American territory.

Word was received today from the Brazilian minister at Mexico City that Gutierrez's cabinet was considering declaring a general amnesty.

DYER INSURANCE CASE SETTLED FOR $22,500

Widow of Herbert L. Dyer Reaches Agreement With Empire Life Company

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

VALDOSTA, Ga., Dec. 21.—In settlement of a $25,000 claim against the Empire Life Insurance company for five $5,000 policies issued to her deceased husband, Herbert L. Dyer, Mrs. Emile Briggs Dyer has been given $22,500 by the company, it is understood.

Mr. and Mrs. Dyer were once both well known in Atlanta, where they formerly lived. Following Mr. Dyer's death last summer, Mrs. Dyer brought suit for $25,000 in the city court of Valdosta against the Empire Life Insurance company. The company contested the claim on the ground that Mr. Dyer had committed suicide; the jury found differently, however, and a verdict for $25,000 was returned for the widow.

The company moved for a new trial; the motion was overruled; the company then filed its bill of exceptions and was about to take the case to the court of appeals when the settlement at $22,500 was agreed upon.

Bryan & Middlebrooks, of Atlanta; Patterson & Copeland and E. K. Wilcox, of Valdosta, represented Mrs. Dyer; Frank A. Hooper, of Atlanta, and Denmark & Griffin, of Valdosta, represented the insurance company.

BABY FALLS IN GRATE; SAVED BY YOUNG MAN

Young Son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Lynch Has Narrow Escape

Perry B. Lynch, Jr., two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry B. Lynch, toddled too close to a grate fire in the home of his father, 20 Bellwood avenue, Monday morning, and his clothing became ignited.

J. H. Maner, a young man who lives at the Lynch home, was in the room at the time. He tore off his coat and wrapped it around the baby, smothering the blaze.

The little boy was taken to the Grady hospital, where a few slight burns were dressed. Doctors stated that Maner's prompt action probably saved the boy's life.

FREE TEXT BOOKS URGED FOR THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Executive Board of Federation of Trades Adopts Resolution of Approval

Free text books for the pupils in the Atlanta public schools are urged in resolutions adopted Sunday afternoon by the executive board of the Atlanta Federation of Trades and strongly indorsed by the Woman's Study club, through its president, Mrs. A. G. Helmer.

These resolutions will be presented to Mayor Woodward and the general council, and a delegation from the Federation of Trades will call upon Mayor Woodward and request that he use his influence to have council pass the necessary ordinances and provide the necessary appropriation.

It is pointed out in the resolutions adopted by the Federation of Trades that there are many children in Atlanta who are being denied the opportunities of an education because of the fact that their parents are unable to supply them with school books. With free school books it is contended the last hindrance to the opportunity of every child receiving an education will be removed, as free tuition is already provided.

Referring to the free textbook proposition the resolutions, in part, say:

"We believe this will be a distinct advance in the cause of education of all our children and will make our public schools free, indeed, and not in a limited sense.

"Therefore, in the progress of events, we submit that the time has come and now is that free textbooks and supplies should be furnished to the children in our public schools, and inasmuch as your honorable body stands as the spokesmen for the people of the city, we ask that some means be provided by which these textbooks and supplies can be furnished free to the school children."

The resolutions were prepared and signed by J. B. Hewitt, president Atlanta Federation of Trades; S. B. Marks, president Georgia Federation of Labor; J. F. Bradfield, secretary Atlanta Federation of Trades; Jerome Jones, chairman legislative committee Atlanta Federation of Trades; William Robinson, secretary legislative committee Atlanta Federation of Trades.

PROHIBITION BATTLE TO START MONDAY IN HOUSE

Forces Are Being Lined Up for Struggle on Hobson Resolution

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Representative Hobson, of Alabama, and other supporters of national prohibition were actively at work today lining up their forces for tomorrow's encounter in the house when the rule to take up the Hobson resolution for submission to the states of a constitutional amendment for nation-wide prohibition will be voted on. This issue overshadows all other questions before congress during the week.

It was generally believed that the rule would be adopted as a majority vote only is necessary. The rule provides for eight hours of debate after which the resolution is to be voted on. Indications are that the discussion will be spirited. Administration leaders in the house predict that the prohibition resolution will be defeated. A two-thirds vote of the house would be necessary to secure its adoption. In case the resolution is defeated Senator Sheppard, of Texas, later on in the senate will make an effort to get action on a similar resolution he introduced at the last session.

It had been planned to vote immediately afterward on a special rule for a woman's suffrage constitutional amendment but administration leaders today predicted there would be no opportunity to take up the question until after the holidays.

AD FINDS $50,000 WORTH OF JEWELS FOR BRIDE

Finder Returns Valuables and Receives Reward of $2,000

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, 21.—Fifty thousand dollars worth of jewels lost here recently by a Chicago bride have been returned, the advertised reward of $2,000 has been paid, no questions were asked and the incident is closed, according to an announcement made today by the manager of a hotel where the couple were staying. Their identity remains a secret.

The bride dropped the jewel case as she entered her automobile upon leaving the theater, it was said, and the finder picked it up, read the advertisement and returned it.

The reason why the couple declined to reveal their identity, it was said at the hotel, was that they didn't want to give their relatives an opportunity to scold them for carelessness.

INJUNCTION AGAINST BIG MERGER DENIED

(By Associated Press.)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 21.—Efforts of the General Investment company, of Maine, to thwart plans of directors of the Lake Shore Railroad company to consolidate with the New York Central Railway company failed today when Judge Stevens, of common pleas court, refused an injunction.

The merger meeting is to take place tomorrow. The General Investment company alleged that officials of the two roads sought to deplete the treasuries of both roads and charged criminal violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws.

LONDON THEATERS WILL OPEN FOR CHRISTMAS

Children Will Not Be Robbed of Holiday Because of War

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—In spite of the gloom which hangs over London at night and the general depression as a result of the war, the more important London theaters will offer their Christmas pantomines as usual, taking the position that children must not be robbed of their holiday treat because of the war.

"Cinderella," "Jack and the Bean Stalk," "Sleeping Beauty" and a number of other favorite fancies of childhood are to be revived at Christmas time with the same brilliancy as in past years.

Hotels which have not attempted to have dancing since the opening of the war have also announced that they will resume the weekly Saturday evening dinner dances in an effort to throw off the gloom which is settling over England.

Mourning is rapidly displacing color in London streets and shop windows are filled with black hats. Belgian and French visitors are nearly all in mourning and few London hostesses are now able to arrange dinners, even very small affairs, without discovering that the war has visited death upon the families of many of their friends.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The grand jury investigation into the murder on November 24 of Barnet Baff, wealthy live poultry dealer, which begins today, will be directed personally by Charles S. Whitman, district attorney and governor-elect.

Assistant District Attorney Delehanty laid before Mr. Whitman not only the statements of the men who have been held as witnesses but also the reports of the detectives who have been working night and day for three weeks on the case.

Joseph Cohen, who holds the contracts for unloading poultry in the New Jersey railroad yards, and his brother, Jacob Cohen, were to be arraigned before Judge Malone in general session court today to plead to indictments charging them with responsibility for an assault on A. T. Pearson, a friend of Baff.

Headed by James J. Brady, collector of internal revenue in this district, the "newsies" were detailed to the street corners where they cried their papers thirty or forty years ago.

A Burrowing Buccaneer.

As a sanitary precaution, Mobile, Ala., has taken stringent measures against the rat. Municipal ordinances have been enacted, requiring all stables within the city limits to be rodent-proof as well as fly-proof, and similar regulations apply to buildings near the water front. A corps of skilled rat-catchers has been engaged, ordinary tabbies have risen to the dignity of Puss In Boots, and the entire community rejoices in the spirit of ancient Hamlin town.

Rats were no worse at Mobile than at the average port or inland city, but the sanitary sense of Mobile was uncommonly alert. It was wisely unwilling to await the development of an epidemic before taking vigorous steps to safeguard its health. It preferred an ounce of prevention to a pound of cure, and as a result it will be proof against maladies to which less watchful cities are continually exposed.

Furthermore there will be considerably less waste of merchandise and less danger to property from fire than there were before the anti-rat campaign began. Statisticians assure us that an able-bodied well-whiskered rat destroys betwen a dollar and two dollars worth of goods each year; and when we consider the prolific power of these creatures we cannot doubt that the aggregate toll of their teeth mounts far into the millions. The Courier-Journal sagely remarks in this connection that "as the gap between population and food supply becomes more pronounced, there will be less disposition to tolerate these ravages, even in rural localities where the menace of disease is not so great as in cities where waterway traffic makes possible the importation of rodent germ-bearers." In truth, the rat is now recognized as a buccaneer as dangerous in his way as ever was Bill Bones or Captain Kidd, and with none of their picturesque traits to redeem him.

New Light on Alaska.

"Alaska is not a perennially ice-locked wilderness, but a country magnificent in the extent and variety of its natural resources, a country of marvelous scenic beauty and grandeur, much of it having an equable climate; a country, if not literally flowing with milk and honey, at least quite capable of producing both in abundance and if affording comfortable homes for several millions of people."

The foregoing comment from the annual report of the Secretary of the Interior is not intended to start a migration of fortune seekers but simply to set right the view of those persons who have imagined Alaska a region of howling wolves, where none but the halest explorer dares venture, or as a vast Roaring Camp, whose men and manners are beyond the pale of civilization. This territory, which the United States acquired decades ago for what would now be considered a mere trifle of money, offers no richer opportunities than many a district in the nation proper, but it is stored unmistakably with treasures of soil and forest, mine and stream. Its resources, so long neglected, and locked up from individual enterprise are at last being developed. Its population is steadily increasing; and in years to come it will be among the productive and useful parts of the nation.

The Alaskan railroad law, enacted by Congress last March, provides for the construction of a system of railroads "including a trunk line or lines from some point or points on the Pacific coast to the interior with necessary branch lines to the coal fields." The engineering commission appointed to map this work has pressed forward its task with such energy that it expects to submit a report before the end of the year. This railway system built and controlled by the Government, will open the way for Alaska's thorough development; and thenceforth the territory will become more and more valuable to the nation, and to those who stake their fortunes on its soil.

A Nation of Inventors.

That America's inventive genius has lost none of its old-time zest is indicated by the fact that during the last fiscal year the Government received nearly seventy-two thousand applications for patents on new mechanisms and designs, the largest number in the records of the Patent Office. During the same twelvemonth more than thirty-eight thousand patents were granted, and some twenty-two thousand expired. Incidentally, it is worth noting that the receipts of the office aggregated two million, one hundred and sixty-nine thousand, nine hundred and eighty-eight dollars, and that the net surplus of income over expenditures was nearly a quarter of a million dollars. Thanks to the inventive faculty, there is at least one department of the Government which costs the public nothing.

It is fitting that a nation which gave the world the cotton gin, the steamboat, the sewing machine, the telegraph and telephone, the incandescent light, together with scores of electrical devices, the phonograph, the flying machine and other instruments and appliances almost beyond number, should sustain keen interest in the realm of invention. True, for every success there is a thousand failures among those who search or tinker in laboratory and shop; and in the enormous mass of ingenious devices that are turned forth comparatively few are of use. Yet, it is to this spirit of ceaseless inquiry and experiment, to these dreams of unknown thousands that civilization owes its most cunning implements and much of its progress and blessing.

Whoever has an idea should keep striving to give it expression. He may fail, he may be sadly disillusioned; but again he may succeed splendidly. In any event, he is better and the world is better for his thought and his effort.

The strongest man is weak if he lacks confidence in himself.

Money Crops.

In commenting upon the admirable work of the girls' garden and canning clubs in the South, the federal Department of Agriculture observes:

"The actual products which the girls have put up are proving an invaluable asset in many farm homes where the cotton crop has not brought the customary returns and many farmers are now substituting whole acres of onions and tomatoes in place of cotton after seeing the success which the young women have made with these crops."

It would be a dull and muddy-mettled people indeed who would not profit by the splendid example of the girls' garden and canning clubs. Like their brothers in the corn clubs these farm lassies have pointed new paths of opportunity, and have demonstrated in dollars and cents the assured and substantial profits that can be derived from a comparatively small acreage devoted to food crops.

It is doubtless the case on a number of Southern farms today that the cash proceeds from the products raised by the girls and boys of the family exceed those from cotton. True, this is an abnormal year in the cotton market, but the value of food crops as a source of cash income is none the less apparent.

The Department of Agriculture, it is to be hoped, is well advised in stating that thousands of acres heretofore given over to cotton are now being prepared for tomatoes, onions and other vegetables. It is undoubtedly true in Georgia that many farmers are making ready to diversify their crops as never before, and to specialize upon products that can be sold easily for table supplies. If this policy is consistently carried out, the South will enter upon a new era of agricultural progress and independence.

Editorial Echoes

Without any especial training as a contributing editor, President Wilson always manages to turn out an exceedingly well prepared article when he delivers a message to congress.—Washington Star.

Mr. Taft will only demonstrate more forcibly than ever to some of his fellow Republicans that he is no politician by the dispassionate way in which he expresses amusement at "the passing show" in the partisan agitation for bigger armaments. If he were loyally performing his part in a campaign aimed at the Wilson administration he could not calmly remark "I do not believe that we are defenseless." He would try to look panic-stricken and do his duty by alarming other people.—New York World.

Privateering has been abandoned by civilized nations, although the United States for one has never definitely renounced it; but it survives though not the name, in the commerce-destroying feats of naval vessels. Respect for an enemy's property at sea is hard to inculcate. Perhaps we are still too near the time when great naval heroes were little better than pirates. Such is the view which the critical historian may take of even Drake or Hawkins, and there are British writers who insist, in the face of all the evidence to the contrary, that Paul Jones belongs in the same category. There can be little doubt as to the status of the forty men from the German cruiser Emden who, according to report, marooned on Cocos island, have captured and armed a collier and who now are raiding commerce in the Pacific. They are doing, to be sure, only what they did before. But the Emden was a regularly commissioned vessel under the German flag. It would be difficult to show that the piratical remnant of the Emden's crew is entitled to this protection.—Public Ledger.

The Jewish Zionist Movement
By Frederic J. Haskin

Last August the Zionist movement of the world, which has had its executive office in Berlin since its beginning, transferred its headquarters to New York, occupying offices generously donated by Mr. Nathan Straus. This transfer of headquarters has given a greater interest in the Jewish movement than had been evidenced in this country before. With the transfer of offices came also the responsibility of meeting the financial obligations of the organization. This obligation called for large sums of money and the munificence of the contributions being made by prominent Americans continually attracts attention to their object.

• • •

To the average American the Jewish movement suggests a rather impractical and idealistic effort upon the part of a few Hebrews to regain possession of Palestine and make it again the home of the Jewish people. Few have any idea of the practical progress which has been made, especially within the last five years.

• • •

One reason that the full details of the Zion movement are so little understood in this country is that, previous to the European war, fully 90 per cent of the money which supported the reclamation work in Palestine was contributed in Europe. Except for the beneficence of a small number of private individuals, America has done little towards restoring the Jewish nation to its former home. But within the past three months the war has changed this—Germany, Russia and the other countries cannot make contributions now. Not only are the funds completely stopped, but no trustworthy communications could be maintained between Palestine and Berlin. Consequently, the establishment of provisional headquarters in a neutral country was imperative. The American Hebrews have come valiantly to the fore in this emergency.

• • •

After Mr. Straus had provided offices, Louis D. Brandeis espoused the cause and was made chairman of the provisional committee, which has set itself about raising the sum of $100,000 for immediate relief. Mr. Straus contributed $25,000 to start this fund.

• • •

In every large city the Hebrews are vieing with each other in raising this money promptly, the $100,000 being a sort of emergency fund to relieve special needs brought about by the war. If Turkey had remained neutral, the Jews in Palestine would have escaped with comparatively little loss, except from the lack of transportation for their exports, and the stoppage of income derived from them. But conditions are now much worse than anticipated and grave suffering exists, which only the generosity of the American Hebrews can relieve.

• • •

In addition to the large fund for the emergency relief, there must be regular contributions to support the colonization work now under way in Palestine. Most of this had been started by European Hebrews. In order that it may not fall behind, Julius Rosenwald, of Chicago, has pledged the sum of $1,000 monthly during the war and for twelve months, so that there is no reason to doubt but that in her assumption of the responsibility, the United States will fulfill her duty towards the Zionist movement as well as her other philanthropies.

• • •

Mr. Brandeis makes his appeal to the Hebrews of America upon the ground that in reestablishing their own race and natural life in the land of their forefathers they are fulfilling the highest American ideals of democracy and social justice.

• • •

Securing for the Jews means that in the future Jews will be enabled to have an option as to whether they will live in the land of their fathers or in some other country, a right which members of small nations as well as large—which Irish, Greek, Bulgarian, Slovakian or Belgian—may now exercise as fully as the Germans or English.

• • •

The Zionist movement was first proposed by Theodore Herzl, a Viennese journalist, in 1860, and was ridiculed as a preposterous dream. Zangwill, the novelist, read of it and was convinced of the value of the thought. Largely through his influence the prominent Hebrews of England were interested in it and the first Zionist congress was held at Basel in 1897. At this congress a constitution was drawn up which declared: "The object of Zionism is to establish for the Jews a publicly and legally assured home in Palestine."

• • •

This declaration suggested in a negative way what the Jews of every nation have been made to feel; namely, that the Jews as a people have no home and are thus continually made the playball of contending factions and warring interests. Herzl set himself actively to work to obtain the original home of the race through the cooperation of the Turkish government. Largely through his efforts the Turkish government stood back of the movement in guaranteeing the protection of the Jewish immigrants who returned to take up their residence in Palestine. Many Jews have done this today. Palestine contains more than 100,000 Jews. Fully 65 per cent of these are in Jerusalem and the others are to be found in Jaffa, Safed, Tiberias, Haifa and scattered in small colonies in the rural districts. From the time of the destruction of the temple, nearly 2,000 years ago, the hope of a return to the land of his fathers buoyed up the Jew amidst direst persecution.

• • •

When less than a generation ago, Jews were driven by persecution out of Russia and Rumania, arrangements were made for some of them to return to Palestine as colonists instead of coming to America to find an asylum, as thousands of them did. The first Zionist colonists had to face obstacles of many kinds. The land seemed an arid treeless desert. All natural resources had been destroyed. It was unwholesome and malarial, so that many lost their lives in establishing the earliest settlements. The people were ill equipped to grapple with the difficulties of pioneer life. They were ignorant of the ways of farmers' lives which they proposed to lead. Even recently the Jews of Russia and Rumania have been denied the opportunity of owning and working land. Their activities had been confined to commercial pursuits in the towns.

• • •

The land has now been reclaimed by modern methods of agriculture, so that it bids soon again to be "flowing with milk and honey." Oranges, grapes, almonds and grain grow in abundance. Those who understand the natural resources of Palestine claim that it is a miniature California in its climate and agricultural possibilities. Its commercial possibilities are proved by the fact that its orange exportations have increased within 10 years from 60,000 boxes annually to 1,500,000 boxes. This export is expected to be doubled within five years when the newly planted orange trees begin to bear fruit. Other fruits are being cultivated. The time honored olive growing industry is being revived. Grains are being raised in areas of the home lands, a considerable quantity of wheat having been exported to Italy last year.

• • •

While the Hebrew reverence for the habits of his ancestors is respected, the modern advances in science and industries are being applied to this reestablished nation. Modern implements of agriculture are replacing those in use for centuries. Modern fertilization is restoring the soil to its former excellence. The colonists themselves have the spirit of pioneers and are working valiantly to overcome all obstacles, but the means to rehabilitate Palestine must be supplied by the Jews who are able to accumulate money in other countries.

• • •

However, it is a mistake to suppose that the Zionist movement has in view the ultimate return of all the Jews in the world to Palestine. That country would not hold more than a fifth of the Jews who now number at least 14,000,000 in the world. The movement does not influence any one to go there except voluntarily. It is a visable sign of a spiritual effort of the leaders of a great race to preserve in some place a national life with a freedom to live and to worship at their own option.

• • •

An important feature in the real construction of a real Jewish national life by the colonization of Palestine is the use of the Hebrew language in that country. Hebrew has been considered a dead language for many centuries. It is now again the language of Jerusalem and throughout Palestine, wherever a Zionist colony has located. The Jews who settled in Palestine came from every land, each speaking a different tongue except for the Yiddish used in his devotions.

• • •

The fervor the Jewish colonists feel for the revival of the Hebrew in Palestine was demonstrated last year in the struggle made to prevent it being superseded in certain schools. Some Jews frim Germany, America and Russia last year contributed money to found a technical school in Haifa. It was intended at first that this should be a Jewish school with Hebrew as the prevailing language, but the Germans were not willing to have it so. The people of Haifa were so strong in their determination to establish Hebrew as the national language in Palestine that they refused to send their children to a German speaking school, much as its benefits were needed in the vicinity. The matter has not been definitely settled. Even the settlers who were born and educated in Europe are opposed to allowing any other language than Hebrew to gain a foothold in their newly regained Palestine.

• • •

To restore Palestine then to a standard of civilization worthy of the race which has preserved the highest civilization of the world for many centuries is an object which the average modern Hebrew is finding worthy of his greatest generosity.

TRAVELLETTE
BY JIKSAW.

NO. 115 GIBRALTAR.

A massive rugged mountain flung down in a lovely southern sea, Gibraltar strikes the gaze and the imagination with almost the force of a physical blow. It is the acme of the startling, the unexpected, the grotesque, a gigantic accident of nature wholly unrelated to its surroundings, so that one imagines that it fell from some whirling planet, a cast-off from a dead world. And this impression of strangeness is heightened by its shape, for it resembles a great, crouching beast with the point of Europe for its paws, and its heavy head turned toward the low-lying African mainland.

The rock dominates all of its surroundings, subordinating them to insignificance. A fleet at anchor seems but a collection of playthings at the feet of the monster, and the town is but a touch of color. The fortifications are almost invisible at a little distance, merely a menacing muzzle showing here and there, yet the rock is mined and crannied with engines of death. Long seasweeping guns and crouching bell-mouthed howitzers and mortars are hidden along the face of the cliff, making the narrow strait impossible for a foe.

You have left Andalusia to visit Gibraltar, and the minute you set foot upon the little town, you realize that you have indeed left Spain behind. The Englishman had marked Gibraltar as his own. The driveways are neatly planted with northern shrubs and flowers; they are smooth and well kept, and the correct and substantial carriages that roll along them are exactly like the ones you may see in Hyde Park. All of this neatness and conventionality is in sad contrast to the natural freedom and picturesqueness of the great monolith, and one is inclined to be thankful that the Englishman has not been able to mold the rock and color the sea in accordance with his taste.

In addition to Englishmen, the rock is inhabited by Spaniards, Gibraltar being the only point on the European continent where they are indigenous. Its warm climate is very favorable to them, but the winds from the sea they find rather uncongenial, and they travel round and round the rock so as to be always upon the sheltered side. In this way they constitute a sort of natural barometer. These monkeys are rigidly protected by law, and are probably the most admired inhabitants of the rock.

The Searchlight

TRAINED RURAL TEACHERS.

Proper courses of training for rural teachers, and the intelligent use of the country school house as a civic center were pronounced the great needs of rural education in addresses at a recent national conference on the subject held in Chicago.

An investigation has shown that 32.7 per cent of the rural teachers in the United States have had no professional training for their work; while perhaps a majority are inadequately prepared. Rural education is regarded by leading educators as the crux of the educational problem in this country. To give the country child education and opportunities equal to those enjoyed by the city child is the great educational need of this contry.

The first step is to raise the standard of teaching, and to this end the conference recommends that special courses in rural teaching be given in state and private normal schools; that agricultural colleges fit their students to teach manual training, and home economics, and that they emphasize the importance of vocational training; and that all high schools maintain teachers' training classes.

By thus offering educational opportunities and establishing a definite standard of rural education, it is hoped to create a class of rural teachers who will be trained for their professions, and will be able to impart the practical vocational instruction which is so much needed in rural districts.

The conference expresses the opinion that school houses should be used as polling places, and as forums for public discussion, under the supervision of an officer of the school.

WATER FOR ALL.

A single device that provides sanitary drinking water on the street for adults, children, horses and dogs, has been devised by the water commissioner of Somerville, Mass. The great advantage of his invention is its simplicity, for it might be installed anywhere by an ordinary plumber, and requires no unusual fixtures.

The basis of the fountain is a twelve-inch cast iron pipe, set upright in the ground. The pipe which carries the water rises in the center of this to a height of about four feet above the level of the street. It has three faucets and a sanitary bubbler. Half way up the large pipe, a small shelf is attached, upon which children may stand while drinking. At the bottom of the fountain on the other side is a small basin for dogs, which is kept filled by a drip.

It is possible for three teamsters to fill their pails at the fountain at the same time, and the large pipe forms a convenient shelf for the support of the vessels. It is claimed that by the elimination of the old-time horse trough, the spread of glanders and other equine diseases has been checked.

Quips and Quiddities

"Read the big evening extra—the war is all over," cried a newsboy. The announcement that the war was at an end naturally caused many persons to purchase papers.

They anxiously scanned the headlines, but instead of seeing announcements of the end of the European strife they saw headlines which proclaimed victory for the allies in a minor battle.

"Here, son!" shouted one man, who had bought a paper. "What-dye mean saying the war is all over? There isn't anything about that in the paper you sold me."

"You stopped me before I finished yelling," was the prompt response of the curb merchant. "I was going to say that the war is all over Europe."

• • •

"Oh, doctor, I have sent for you, certainly; still I must confess that I have not the slightest faith in modern medical science."

"Well," said the doctor, "that doesn't matter in the least. You see, a mule has no faith in the veterinary surgeon, and yet he cures him all the same."

The minister of a small Missouri town called the grocer on the phone the other day and gave the following order:

"Send a dollar's worth of meat out to my house. If there is no one at home just poke it through the keyhole."

The Belgian Diary Of an American
BY E. A. CANTRELL.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Cantrell, who was born in Kentucky, lived in Belgium seventeen years. He was in Brussels when the Germans began the siege of Liege, and he witnessed all the preliminary panic of the Belgians in Brussels and other cities. He had remarkable experiences in various parts of Belgium during the war. At the end he spent several weeks as a soldier in the trenches before Antwerp. He was in the panic when the German bombardment of the city began, and was with the 600,000 frenzied Belgians who rushed to the Dutch border.)

BRUXELLES, Sept. 20, 1914.—We are going to try to get out tomorrow. I learn there are two ways by which one may still leave Brussels. Mrs. Cantrell is well enough to make the attempt to reach Ghent and then Ostend, I think. The situation here is getting worse every day.

The Germans are shooting men and boys who are little more than children every day at the barracks. And all the time there is the sound of cannonading from Malines, which lies abot fifteen miles toward Antwerp.

Anybody found with a carrier pigeon is shot. All Belgian flags are ordered withdrawn, and all citizens are sent to their homes by 10 p. m. Anybody found smuggling in a newspaper is shot. Anybody interfering with or making an insulting remark to a sentry is shot. Persons riding a bicycle or "looking mutinously" at a sentry will be "severely dealt with." You may be arrested and fined if you are caught reading a newspaper, but just the same boys smuggle them in at the risk of their lives and sell them for 5 francs each—particularly Le Matin from Antwerp. Sometimes we get the English papers that way.

You are sitting in a cafe. A boy comes in and looks you over. Then he walks past and says in a whisper: "Le Matin!" You lay down your money, the boy picks it up and follows you into the lavatory, where he pulls a paper from under his coat or shirt. You read the paper there. The Germans permit only their own bulletins to be published here. They come out every other day in French, German and Flemish, and to read one of them you'd think the kaiser never lost a battle.

The Germans have cut off the town's supply of electric light, except what they want for themselves in a few places. As almost no homes are piped for gas the town is pretty dark, and almost everybody is reduced to candles. The dealers will only sell a few at a time. A while back you could buy half a kilo of potatoes—about two pounds—at one time. Now they will let you have but a quarter of a kilo. Lately there has been no yeast in the bread. If it hadn't been for Hannah, our Norwegian servant, Mrs. Cantrell would have suffered. But Hannah can make something out of nothing, and a delicacy out of boot leather.

Burgomaster Max is just the man to deal with the Germans. For a time, as soon as they quartered an order he would put up a polite notices countermanding it. He used to go to the bourse every day and talk to business men. The Germans sent to arrest him, but he beat them to it. He hustled to the American legation and got Ambassador Whitlock to give him a job there. When the officers arrived he showed his papers. It took the authorities two weeks to figure out a way to arrest him.

I think it was about the 14th of this month when I got hold of a London Daily Telegraph telling of the German defeat on the Marne. The Germans in Brussels looked dejected and several days later an officer told me that the kaiser spoiled the whole thing by interfering with General Kluck. The officer said the kaiser wanted the crown prince to make the limelight entry into Paris, and so he put him in charge of the whole left wing, five army corps. He blundered. They say von Kluck would have had Paris in two days more. Of course there are thousands of false reports and wild rumors.

I can say this much for the Germans; they enforce discipline among their own men. Early last evening I saw a crowd in front of the prison. A young soldier, cavalryman, I think, had slipped on a piece of orange peel and fallen down on his knees. His automatic pistol had dropped and gone off. When I got there he was trying to pick it up, but Belgian wine had addled him so he wasn't having very good luck. There was a crowd of boys and young men jeering. That made him ugly, and when he did get the gun he aimed it at the crowd. Three or four men grabbed him and held his arms up. He fired in the air. Then a Belgian ran to the nearest German patrol and appealed for help. They arrested the private with the pistol, and this morning he was shot.

The single instance of Germans interfering with women occurred in the Augustine cafe a few nights ago. That is, it is the only instance I have seen or heard of from a reliable source. A German officer tried to get acquainted with a very pretty Belgian girl who was there with her mother. The women turned their backs on him, but he persisted and finally grabbed the girl by the hand. She screamed. For a minute it looked like a riot, for the place was crowded. Then one of the former Belgian officers on duty with only a stick and scarf, for insignia and no authority to speak of, appealed to an officer who ranked the one making the trouble. It was settled in half a minute and the German who had insulted the girl went out in a hurry. I should like to see what happened to me if he had been a private he would probably have been shot.

The German troops that were here have gradually been replaced by men of the Landstrum and the Landwehr, men from forty to fifty years old, and on September 11 there were only 6,000 German soldiers in Brussels. The Belgian army should have known this, if it didn't. And another thing that puzzles me is why the Germans have been allowed to bring up the great 42-centimeter howitzers that take thirty-two Flemish horses each.

All the public buildings are filling up with wounded and the German troops coming in from the front don't look much like the spick-and-span men we saw at first. They are all very dirty and ragged when they march through here, with about a month's growth of whiskers, and they, well, they scratch a lot. The other day I saw a long artillery procession from the Marne fighting. The cheek bones of the gunners stood out as though they would burst through the skin. The train halted frequently in the streets and once I saw a man go to sleep leaning on a gun carriage. They all looked as if they had not had his boots off for fifteen days. He said he had been without food for twelve hours at a time, often, while cooped up in a railroad train. They are continually being shunted from west to east and back again. A good many wear their boots hanging by their belts and anything they can get on their feet. I saw one man with puttes wrapped around his feet. He said he took them from an English prisoner. Another wore looted slippers. The boots are heavy leather and were new when served out. They look well with the German gray, but they're mighty hard on the feet.

The Germans are brave, but the Belgians are the gamest people, without any exception, that I ever saw. The woman who keeps the shop where we buy most of our food had her husband and all three brothers killed during the first five days at Liege. Then her father was killed at Alost. After that her sister got killed. Did she shut up shop and go to pieces? Not much! She kept right on, the same as usual, but the way she hates Germans would make you shudder.

I've seen enough suffering, and I hope we can get away tomorrow.

EVENING

Go, little sorrows! From the evening wood
Faint odors rise, that touch the heart like tears
With inarticulate comfort. Lo, she bears
A weary load—small cares that drag the blood.
Small envies, sick desires for lesser good—
All day, till now the evening reappears.
They drop away, and she with wonder rears
Her aching height from needless servitude.
The tree-tops are all music; light and soft
The brook's small feet go tinkling toward the sea
Bearing the little day's distress afar;
While yonder, in the stillness set aloft,
My one great Grief, still glimmering down on me,
Smiles tremulous as a bereaved Star.

GERMANS INTERNED ARE PLACED ON STEAMERS

New Quarters Welcome Relief From Confinement in Prison Camps

SOUTHEND, England, Dec. 12.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—German prisoners who were interned at the race track at Newbury, concerning which so many complaints were made in German papers, have been moved to other places, many of them being on three English prison ships which are now docked here in command of Colonel B. Cordes, a retired officer who had long experience in charge of prison camps in the South African war.

Baron Louis Anton von Horst, whose situation has been much in question since the opening of the war, is among the prominent men held on the Prince Edward, a ship formerly in service between Bristol and Canadian ports, which has been converted into a prison ship, together with the liners Saxonia and Ivernia.

Baron von Horst is well known in California, where he has lived much of his life and has many relatives. His attorneys say he is really an American, as his father was naturalized in the United States and consequently the present baron, who was then under age, automatically became an American citizen.

However, Baron von Horst accepted a baronetcy from the Duchy of Saxe-Coburg, and believed he had surrendered his American citizenship in doing so. At least he registered in London, at the opening of the war, as an alien enemy. His case, under representations from the American embassy, is under consideration.

German prisoners are delighted with the transfer to the roomy passenger ships, where they can keep warm and dry, in contrast to the unfavorable conditions under which they lived in canvas and stables at the Newbury race course.

Each of the three prison ships here has about 800 Germans on board. Sanitary conditions are excellent on the ships, and it is not unlikely that more vessels will be added to the prison fleet, as this means of caring for Germans is especially satisfactory.

The prisoners on the ships eat from china and live much as passengers would on an ordinary sea voyage, except that their belongings are carefully searched and military discipline is enforced.

At Queen's Ferry, in Wales, an unused iron works has been taken over for the use of prisoners and several hundred men are quartered in the building, which affords an admirable shelter. The establishment overlooks the sea and is surrounded by several acres of land inclosed in a high board fence on three sides. The prisoners have a large ground for football, baseball and other sports.

Lack of employment is the great problem in all the prison camps. Bad weather makes sports impossible and the men are unable to amuse themselves satisfactorily in their cramped quarters. In many of the camps they have learned to knit and busy themselves making socks and neck scarfs.

According to Berlin, Germans Win in West

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Dec. 21.—(By Wireless to London.)—The German war office this afternoon gave out an official statement as follows:

"The French attacks yesterday at Neuville, Belgium, were repulsed.

"Between Richebourg L'Avoue and the canal of La Bassee we attacked the positions of the Anglo-Indian troops, stormed and captured their trenches and dislodged them from their positions with heavy losses. We captured one piece of artillery, five machine guns, two mine throwers and 270 Anglo-Indians, including ten officers. The trenches we lost to the enemy December 15 near Notre Dame de Lorette have been recaptured.

"In the neighborhood of Souhain, to the northeast of Chalons, French troops yesterday delivered a fierce attack. In one place they penetrated our trenches, but their attack broke down under our fire. They left four officers and 310 men in our hands, and a large number of dead French troops were left on the ground in front of our position.

"In the Argonne we captured an important wooded hill at Le Four de Paris, three machine guns, one revolver gun, and 275 prisoners.

"The fierce French attacks to the northwest of Verdun have failed completely. The great activity shown by the French along our entire front has been explained by an army order dated December 17 and signed by General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French troops, which was found on a French officer. This order read as follows:

"During three months the enemy has made numerous fierce attacks without being able to break through our line. Everywhere he has been victoriously repulsed. The moment has now arrived for us to make use of the weakness which he has shown. After having reinforced ourselves with men and material the hour of attack has arrived. We kept the German forces in check, and it is now our business to clear the fatherland of the invaders.

"Soldiers, more than ever before France relies upon your courage and your desire to conquer at any cost. You already have been victorious on the Marne, and on the Yser, at Ypres, in Lorraine and in the Vosges. You will know how to conquer until the final triumph."

"In the eastern arena of the war the situation in west Prussia remains unchanged. In Poland we continue our attacks against the positions of the enemy."

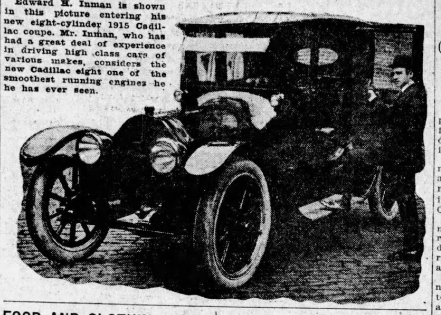
LONDON, Dec. 19.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The various shipbuilding yards now are as busy as though there was no war.

The loss of many ships, due to being bottled up or sunk, made freight rates high, creating an increased demand for new tonnage as well as hastened repairs on old or captured craft. The repairing yards are full with orders, and new steamers are not being guaranteed for early delivery owing to pressure of work.

A suggestion has been made by the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce advisory committee that some of the Austrian and German steamers now tied up in British harbors should be employed to relieve the present shortage of tonnage. Merchants, especially in the coal trade, are suffering inconvenience through this shortage, which was caused partly by their vessels being requisitioned by the government and by delays and congestion at foreign ports. It is said the admiralty is seriously considering the proposal.

THE NEW CADILLAC "EIGHT"

Edward H. Inman is shown in this picture entering his new eight-cylinder 1915 Cadillac coupe. Mr. Inman, who has had a great deal of experience in driving high class cars of various makes, considers the new Cadillac eight one of the smoothest running engines he has ever seen.



FOOD AND CLOTHING FOR HUNGRY BELGIANS STOLEN

Large Shipment Taken From Warehouse in Birmingham, Alabama

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 21.—A drayload of food and clothing which was to have been shipped this morning to New Orleans to be loaded on a Belgian relief ship was stolen some time yesterday, the storage warehouse at 1220 Third avenue being robbed. Several carloads of material were stored in the warehouse when the iron bars from a window were sawed in two, and part of the material stolen.

NEGRO TO BE HANGED FOR ATTACKING WOMAN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ALBANY, Ga., Dec. 21.—At a special term of Dougherty superior court held here today Ramson Williams, a negro, was convicted of criminal assault on a white woman in Calhoun county last October and sentenced to be hanged in the Dougherty county jail January 15. The jury was out two minutes and a half. The negro was captured at Quincy, Fla., and was brought to Albany in an automobile November 1. His presence here was kept secret because of the high feeling in Calhoun county until last week, when Judge E. P. Cox called a special term of court here to try the case on a change of venue from Calhoun county.

CHINESE WAR MINISTER LAUDS U. S. WAR DEPT.

Thanks Garrison for Monthly War Reports Sent From Washington

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Tuan Chi Jin, the Chinese minister of war, has a keen sense of appreciation of the value of the United States war department reports, with which he has been supplied from time to time as a matter of courtesy and for his assistance in the reorganization of the Chinese army. In a letter to Secretary Garrison he expresses his thanks for these publications and incidentally his envy of the American nation "for the inexhaustible supply of her talented sons."

The letter was handed to Secretary Garrison by Major Albert J. Bowley, who was recently relieved as military attache at Peking and ordered to Fort Sill. It reads:

"It is with feelings of regret for the great distance that we have not had the pleasure of meeting each other face to face and for my incapabilities to express by writing my respect for your honorable self and admiration for the valuable publications on military affairs which you so very kindly sent me from time to time. Indeed, I cannot sufficiently thank you and express my appreciation for them as a treasure of information.

"I am personally acquainted with Major Albert J. Bowley, who has been here for a number of years, well known for his profound knowledge and sterling character, and I find happy coincidence in his successor. I envy the American nation for the inexhaustible supply of her talented sons.

"Availing myself of the splendid opportunity afforded by the return of Major Bowley to the states, I have asked him to take with him some of the products of this country which I pray you will kindly accept."

YOUNG MAN ARRESTED ON GIRL'S COMPLAINT

Harry Hart Flees From Policeman, but Is Run Down and Captured

After being arrested on a street car on a charge of breach of promise, Harry Hart, aged 18 years, of East Point, broke loose from Policeman W. A. McKinney at Whitehall and Alabama streets Monday morning and gave the officer an exciting chase across the Whitehall viaduct, north on Viaduct Place to Broad street, and finally was captured when he ran into a bicycle and was knocked down. He is held at police station for $1,000 bond.

The girl in the case is Ruth Skinner, aged 16 years, of 216 Cameron street. She was coming to town on the street car with her mother, Mrs. John F. Skinner, and saw Hart on the back platform. She called her mother's attention to him, and Mrs. Skinner, when Policeman McKinney boarded the car a few moments later, had Hart arrested.

It is alleged by Mrs. Skinner that is married.

CITY COUNCIL MAY HAVE FIRST REGULAR CHAPLAIN

Ordinance Creating Office Will Be Offered at Next Meeting

Atlantas city council will have a chaplain, an official it has never had before, if an ordinance prepared by Aldermen Seawright, Maddox and Nutting is passed at the next meeting.

This meeting will be Tuesday afternoon instead of Monday, as immediately after going into session Monday afternoon it is expected council will adjourn in respect to the memory of Mr. W. D. Owens, who died Sunday.

Mr. Owens was the brother of Alderman John S. Owens and related by marriage to Alderman John S. Candler. Alderman J. W. Maddox will introduce the resolution adjourning council to Tuesday afternoon.

Peculiar interest attaches to the ordinance creating the position of chaplain to council, to receive a salary of $25 a month and to be appointed by the mayor pro tem, from the fact that Alderman Maddox is one of its sponsors. When work for the unemployed was recently provided by the passage of resolutions providing for an expenditure of $150,000 on city sewers, Alderman Maddox fought the resolution bitterly in council.

When the resolutions reached the aldermanic board, vote on them was a deadlock. It was Alderman Maddox who held the key to the situation, and when he reconsidered his vote and made the passage of the resolutions possible, it was only after a half-hour's talk with Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden, chairman of the committee from the Evangelical Ministers' association.

ACTION POSTPONED ON GA. JUDGESHIP MEASURE

Subcommittee Named to Consider Any Statement From Judge Speer

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The senate judiciary committee today postponed action of the south Georgia judgeship bill until January 3. In the meantime a subcommittee of five members will receive and consider any statement that Judge Emory Speer may care to make with reference to the measure. Snators Hoke Smith, Chilton and Overman, Democrats, and Dillingham and Sutherland Republicans, constitute the subcommittee.

The judgeship bill was not reached for consideration by the committee until just before adjournment. Senator Culberson laid before the committee telegrams from T. S. Howes, of Bainbridge, and ex-Senator W. S. West, of Valdosta. The former asked that action on the bill be deferred until January 1 in order to give Judge Speer an opportunity to prepare a statement. A message from Senator eWst stated that Judge Speer's condition has improved to such an extent that there is no need for an additional federal judge in the southern district. Senator Smith told the committee that he was anxious to have the matter disposed at the earliest moment, but the committee decided to lt the question go over until its next meeting.

MARKETING OF CROPS WILL BE DISCUSSED

State Officials Will Hold Meeting at Athens on January 15

Steps for marketing Georgia's diversified crops will be taken up at a meeting of state officials at Athens, Ga., January 15 as the result of a letter written to the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce by Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, of Atlanta.

Mrs. Black called the attention of Secretar rWalter C. Cooper to the need for proper marketing of the crops If the campaign for diversification were successful, and Mr. Cooper turned the letter over to Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture.

Dr. Soule has written Secretary Cooper that a special meeting to talk over plans will be held in Athens on the 15th, and that the market bureau of the United States department of agriculture probably will be asked to aid.

FRENCH FLYER BROUGHT DOWN BY GERMAN GUNS

"Beautiful Shot," Says Artilleryman, Describing Death of the Foreign Aviator

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—A German artillerist, writing from Bapaume, France, tells of the death of a French aviator who was brought down by German gunners.

"Today I saw a French aviator brought down by our guns," he said. "The French flyers had been growing bolder and bolder, especially in reconnoitering behind our front, and so we concealed a half battery of howitzers in a village about four miles to the rear in order to teach them a lesson. Things happened as we expected; by 8 o'clock in the morning there came an aeroplane, sailing along with the greatest assurance in the world. The guns at the front were not permitted to fire, and after passing them the aviator, thinking all danger past, kept coming lower and lower, reaching finally a level of only about 1,000 feet. Not suspecting that he would encounter German artillery so far to the rear he came within easy shooting distance for our gunners in the village.

"Suddenly two shots were heard, and two little white clouds were observed in the air not far from the aeroplane. The aviator remained virtually at the same spot, until he was almost enveloped by the next two discharges; one shot exploded just in front of him, the other just behind him. Our men had gotten their range very quickly. Then followed two more shots, one a little to the right, the other just to the left. As seen through my field glasses the aeroplane seemed to waver, as if it had been damaged. It did not seem to obey its steering gear, for it could not get away from the spot.

"The next two shots fired almost simultaneously settled its fate. The first one cut off a wing smoothly. The other was a square hit, and the apparatus was scattered to the four winds. I have not seen such a beautiful shot in the whole war. The gun-pointer who fired it had already distinguished himself on several occasions, and he won the iron cross with today's achievement. The fragments of this aeroplane were picked up afterwards from a wide reach of ground, but of the aviator only a few bits were found.

"Yesterday," the letter continued, "we set up some boards in an abandoned position to resemble a gun shield. Then we sawed off some logs and painted them to look like cannon muzzles when placed in position between the boards. Today the French peppered away at this supposed battery and fired 172 shots before their aviators could tell them that they had been duped."

Christmas Work of the Children of the Confederacy

Much interest has been centering about the meetings of the Children of the Confederacy which have been held regularly through the fall and winter and have been splendidly attended. At each meeting historical programs are given which, beside proving interesting, have much instructive value.

Within the past week the members are in receipt of a number of artistic postcards embossed with the flags of the Confederacy and beneath the picture is a sketch of the early history of the flags. These cards with the red, white and blue make pretty Christmas souvenirs and the young members of the chapter are disposing of them among their friends for the benefit of their chapter.

GRAIN CROP IN MONROE LARGEST IN HISTORY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

FORSYTH, Ga., Dec. 21.—Reports from all sections of the county indicate that the grain crop of next year will be the largest in the history of the county. Learning the lesson from the war and the low price of cotton, the Monroe county farmers have not only increased their oats acreage, but more wheat has been planted than in many years.

FORSYTH PUTS BAN ON CHRISTMAS FIREWORKS

FORSYTH, Ga., Dec. 21.—Because of the presence of so much cotton on the streets and shipping yards of Forsyth, the city council last night decided to prohibit the shooting of fireworks of any description on the streets or sidewalks of Forsyth, and to allow this method of Christmas celebration at other places only to those parties who have first obtained permits from the mayor.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Oh, Peter, Peter Rabbit,
You are so very queer!
That funny head of yours is filled
With crazy thoughts I fear.

The idea of Peter Rabbit going hunting! Did you ever hear of anything more absurd? Yet that is just what Peter was doing. Anyway, it is what he told anxious little Mrs. Peter that he was going to do as he started from the dear, safe Old Brier Patch for the Green Forest. Peter is often hunted, but who ever heard of him as a hunter? And if you don't already think Peter crazy you surely will when I tell you who it was that Peter was starting out to hunt. It was the hunter with the terrible gun, the very one who had been making life so hard for Mrs. Grouse and Peter himself, and others of the little forest and meadow people! If little Mrs. Peter had known that she would have been a hundred times more anxious than she already was.

But Peter didn't tell her. He waved good-by and scampered across to the Green Forest as fast as his legs would take him, lipperty-lipperty-lip. Jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun had just begun his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky as Peter reached the edge of the Green Forest. Usually at this time Peter was just getting home instead of starting out. He drew a long breath.

"I feel right down inside of me that this is going to be a very exciting day," said Peter Rabbit. He squatted down under a low-growing hemlock tree to rest for a few minutes and think his plans all over.

"The first thing to do is to find just where Buster Bear is," thought he. "I must hunt for him until I find him. I do hope he will be taking a nap. After I find him I must hunt for that hunter. It is going to be a fine day, and I'm sure he will come hunting. If he doesn't my the plan will not work at all. But if he does then we will see what we will see, and I have an idea that it will be worth seeing."

Peter looked this way and that way to make sure that the way was clear. It was, and off he started to hunt for Buster Bear. He knew that Buster would probably be in the deepest, darkest part of the Green Forest, and so he headed straight for the place where he had found Buster and made him so dreadfully angry only two nights before. When he got there he moved very, very carefully. He didn't want Buster to see him. It wouldn't do at all to have Buster get so much as a glimpse of him. So he took the greatest care to make no noise and to keep behind trees and piles of brush.

Peter was almost ready to give up when he heard a noise which made him stop, prick up his long ears, and listen with all his might. It came from under a great pile of fallen trees which rough Brother North Wind had torn up by the roots some time when he had been angry and wanted to show how strong he is. Peter tiptoed over to it and peeped under. There was Buster Bear taking a nap on a fine bed of leaves, and once in a while growling very deep down in his throat. It was very plain that Buster was dreaming.

Peter grinned. Then he took one more look before he tiptoed away. When he thought it safe to do so he ran. How he did run! He was going now to hunt for that hunter with the terrible gun. Yes, sir, that is just who Peter was going to hunt for. And, funny as it may seem, Peter hoped that that hunter would have his dog with him.

The Sorosis Room

Just Before Christmas

Was a time when shoes, as Holiday gifts, appealed only to intensely practical people. People with delicate, poetic notions thought they couldn't convey the sentiment of the festival season by such prosaic things as shoes—

But SOROSIS SERVICE has changed all that.

Elegant SOROSIS SHOES combine grace and charm and beauty with ideal utility.

UTILITY—that's the controlling inspiration of thrifty and thoughtful men and women today. They unite in affirming that a present should be USEFUL as well as artistic.

Organizations have been formed to spread the wisdom of that idea—and it is rightly and rapidly taking hold of the public impulse.

All good retailers sanction the movement.

Sorosis Certificates

The gift problem may be quickly and satisfactorily solved by sending the selected recipient of your generosity a SOROSIS CERTIFICATE.

We issue them and they will be honored in any SOROSIS store or department in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Panama and nearly all foreign, insular and continental cities.

The SOROSIS ROOM reflects the rationalism of a prudent and methodical Santa Claus. His spirit broods over the place.

The decorations are mellowed to a theme and scheme suggestive of the great principles that have given the name "SOROSIS" to fame wherever questions of Dress interest women.

Nothing grotesque, nothing garish, nothing bizarre. Fitness, harmony, concord.

The bright gleam of red holly berries, the deep, rich green of pine and the trailing, drooping blossom-burdened spirals of exotics are the exquisite setting for the world's most exquisite Footwear.

SOROSIS SHOES stand for the truest ideal of exclusiveness and economy.

Every style is subjected to the most incisive critical analysis—before you see it.

Many styles you never see. They are the ones that do not measure up to our standard of beauty and harmony.

The merest mite of a blemish is enough to send a style to the discard pile.

SOROSIS SHOES will never be perfect—but we have a notion of Shoe perfection, and our all-the-time try is to attain it.

Every achievement puts us a step nearer.

The more sensitive and accurate your discrimination—the more you will appreciate SOROSIS art.

All Shoes are not alike—except to the superficial observer.

There is a vast difference in their "lines," but only the finely trained eye can distinguish it.

SOROSIS SHOES are exquisite in every detail.

It is not the name SOROSIS—but the beauty of the Shoes—that makes them so popular in every American and European city that cherishes Fashion.

We beautify Shoes—enhance safe workmanship with exquisite grace.

The woman world has warmed to the SOROSIS standard.

Years ago, we hit upon the suggestive descriptive phrase: "WOMEN'S LUXURIOUS SHOES." At that time, "luxurious" was a strange word when used in connection with Shoes.

Today, Shoes live in the public mind as luxuries.

Lightness, brightness, delicacy have been added to strength.

Wonderful how Shoes that seem so fragile, can be so durable.

The SOROSIS initial ideal—artistic inventiveness—and exhaustive creative capacity are more brilliantly in the foreground than ever.

GA. BAPTIST HOSPITAL APPEALS TO OLD SANTA

Asks for Aid to Help Care for the Poor Who Are Ill

The following appeal to the people of Atlanta to remember the sick who are too poor to pay for medical attention has been issued at this Christmastide by the Georgia Baptist hospital:

"To the Citizens of Atlanta and Georgia:

"As this is the time for writing letters to Santa Claus, we send forth the following appeal to him. We are not asking for dolls, and toys, candies and fruits, and many other such things dear to the heart of every child on Christmas morning; neither are we asking for that with which to supply our future wants and needs. This letter is an appeal to every man and woman to act the good part of Santa Claus to this institution with a substantial cash contribution, as a Christmas gift with which to help us meet the obligations already made, and the responsibilities already assumed, in caring for the sick poor during the year now closing.

"This hospital spent last year $7,442.52 in its charity work. The people cared for in this way came to us from Atlanta and every section of Georgia, most of whom would never have received attention had it not been for this hospital. No one has been turned away where there was room to receive them No question is ever asked as to the faith or religion of such patients, as the basis of admission to this hospital is human needs and not human creeds.

"Would it not be a gracious Santa Claus deed for the many thousands who are happy in their own homes, and will in their own bodies, to divide their Christmas money with this institution which has been instrumental in bringing health to so many of the sick poor through the past year?

"While you are giving gifts and writing checks for those who are dear to your own heart, why not make glad the hearts of the management of this institution by a check to help those who are dear to the heart of our Lord, viz., the sick poor, who said Himself: 'Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me.'

CHAMBERS SLATED FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION

Council Expected to Name Him in Hope's Place, Despite Mayor's Protest

Aldine Chambers, persona distinctly non grata to Mayor Woodward, is slated for election to the board of education to succeed George M. Hope from the Sixth ward by council Monday afternoon.

The Sixth ward delegation, Nutting, Wood and Boynton, is united in the selection of Mr. Chambers, and it is likely no candidate in opposition will be nominated.

The mayor's forces in council made the principal fight on Chambers by an effort to prevent the acceptance of Mr. Hope's resignation, which was tendered at a meeting a few weeks ago. Since the fight likely is an effort to postpone the election and throw it into next year's court, and friends of Mr. Chambers declared that they are prepared for such a fight, and will be able to win in spite of it.

Mr. Chambers declares he has a majority of the votes of council pledged to him.

The term of Mr. Hope, which is to be filled, expires in May, 1916.

Players' Fraternity Announces New Demands Made on Organized Ball

Players' Frat Makes Known Late Requests

President Fultz Announces New Provisions Which National Association Is Asked to Adopt — New Measures Concern Release of Players to Lower Leagues

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—President David L. Fultz, of the Baseball Players' fraternity, yesterday made public the provisions which the fraternity recently asked organized baseball to insert in its agreement with the players' association. The provisions were drafted at the meeting of directors of the fraternity October 12. No formal action has been taken on the request for their adoption by the national commission. The proposed provisions are intended, Mr. Fultz said, to bring a better understanding and agreement between the major and minor leagues and the players. They are as follows:

1—A club which releases a player under an optional agreement shall, during the life of the option, pay the difference in salary between that previously paid by said club and that paid by the purchasing club.

2—A club which released a player outright shall pay the difference in salary, if any, between that previously paid by said club, and that paid by the purchasing club for a period of five or ten days, according to the length of notice of unconditional release to which the player is entitled.

3—A player drafted, purchased or recalled by a club in a higher classification shall report to the said club either before the close of the season of the releasing club, or immediately thereafter, and shall be put upon salary.

4—A club releasing a player either outright or optionally shall serve upon him a written notice, containing in addition to the data mentioned in section four of the fraternity agreement, a statement of the minimum amount of salary he is to receive from the purchasing club, which shall be a reasonable salary for that classification.

5—A club releasing a player either outright or conditionally shall furnish him with his traveling expenses to the point at which he is to join the purchasing club. The term "traveling expenses" shall, for the purposes of this agreement, mean railroad fare, Pullman fare and price of meals, when either or both of the last two items are necessary.

6—A transferred player shall be allowed twenty-eight hours in which to leave to join the purchasing team, unless a different period is agreed upon in writing between the parties.

7—Minor league players shall receive their traveling expenses from their home to the training camps incurred in reporting for spring practice.

8—When waivers are asked upon a player the fraternity is to be notified.

9—That the commission and board furnish the management in the various organizations over which they have jurisdiction respectively, with forms of release making provision for the several items of information required by the agreement.

Missouri Team Here Wednesday

The crack five representing the American School of Osteopathy at Kirksville, Mo., will be the next opponent of the Atlanta Athletic club basketball team. The Missourians come for a game Wednesday night. The appearance of this team here should carry considerable interest. It is not only the first appearance here, but this is the first season that the team has come south for games. In addition to the local game, the Missourians had on their schedule games with Birmingham and Nashville teams. They are said to have a husky bunch of boys, who know the game, and work well together. They should furnish the club five some stiff competition.

Still Trying to Sell Yankees

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—Negotiations for the purchase of the New York club of the American league were to be resumed here today.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Jr., and Captain T. L. Houston, the prospective purchasers, had arranged for a conference with B. B. Johnson, president of the league.

Mr. Johnson denied the existence of a deadlock in the deal, and said he was certain the club would be sold.

"There are so many details, however, that time is required to shape things up," president Johnson said. "Colonel Ruppert's first choice for a manager proved impossible. We are working on the subject of a manager now."

Local Fancier Gets High-Bred Dogs

A valuable addition to Atlanta's collection of high-bred canines was made a day or so ago, when J. C. Turner, of this city, received a shipment of two fine wire-haired fox terriers. These dogs were received from Victoria, British Columbia, and bear the high-sounding names, Madrona Niblick and Madrona Fairway. Mr. Turner claims that they are the class of anything of their particular breed in this section.

At the dog show held here during October, Turner entered one dog of this breed, and took first prize over a very fine specimen imported from England at great expense. He is very enthusiastic over his new additions and expects to clean up in later shows with these entries.

Soccer Players to Meet Monday Night

Atlanta soccer football players have begun active work for the present season, and expect to open up a regular schedule of games within the next week or so. A meeting of all interested in the game is called for Monday night at Spalding's store at 5 o'clock. A number of matters of importance are to be discussed, and all players or others interested in the game are urged to be there promptly on time.

The Sportlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

OUR OWN MOTHER GOOSE.

Sing a song of collums
Full of winter dope;
Four and twenty sport scribes
Swinging at the rope;
Everyone is hunting
Something new to pan;
Isn't this a pretty dish
To sit before a fan?

Old King Cole was a merry old soul:
Who giggled without fatigue;
But he never owned a star named Johnson
Or heard of the Federal league.

It has been ten days since Charlie Herzog signed a two-year contract to manage the Reds and he is still undecorated. Yet they say the kaiser is giving each brave and valorous German an iron cross.

Dartmouth, in looking about to improve her schedule, is making the fatal mistake of turning out eleven years by year. When the big Green citadel is able to announce that only one veteran and one second substitute will return for the next year there will be no trouble ahead in plugging all open or desired dates.

FAIR ENOUGH.

No one could ever accuse Connie Mack of paying out the most lavish salaries in the world. No one could ever accuse Connie of being a spendthrift. But the criticism that has been leveled at him over releasing Jack Coombs is hardly justified. Coombs was injured in the Giant-Athletic world series fair work in 1912 and no work at all in 1913 or 1914 through injury and illness. Yet Mack carried Jack on the pay roll for two seasons after he had become disabled. Which is no great philanthropy, but which is fair enough.

KALE GRABBING.

Colonel Ban Johnson is still deeply harassed over the money grabbing instincts of the profession at large—meaning Walter Johnson particularly. Yet Ban is getting $25,000 a year. And we know of a number, as between the two Johnsons, who are willing to testify that Ban isn't worth much more than $5,000 a year over Walter in the way of value to the game.

THE BALL PLAYER PLUS HUMAN NATURE.

It is easy enough to compare the commercial instincts of the old-time player with the present day crop. The old timer undoubtedly was in the game more for sport, or was more in the game for sport. But in the old days there was no crowds of 30,000 and 35,000, and the gate receipts were far below present values. It was only human nature with all this extra kale pouring in and so many magnates cleaning up for the player to develop the commercial instinct and take a hand in the coin collecting act.

Beyond any doubt, the average ball player is too commercial. But so are the majority of the magnates, and so are more of the fans, and so are 50 per cent of most other humans. What most people in this age and in this country wouldn't do for a little more money, if they could get by with it, never has been thought of.

"Why all-American team?" writes L. H. "Why not an all-world selection?"

And to lead the offense, as the most offensive of them all, we'll name Bernard Shaw.

Shaw has something in an offensive way, even on Carnegie and Charley Murphy.

TIP-OFFS AND SUCH.

"The tipoff on the Federal league," says an exchange, "comes in the announcement that Steven Evans has batted over .340 in that circuit. Evans in the National never hit over .280."

Then again there's the case of Joe Tinker who batted over or around .300 in the National and who only landed at .230 in the Fed circuit. And Knabe bit at a higher and harder clip with the Phillies than he did with Baltimore in the new circuit. Quite often it's a poor argument that won't point in more than one direction.

MEETING THE OCCASION.

We have used examples before to show that necessity is the greatest of all developers of pep. Here is another one: At the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., the enrollment is around 100 annually. Yet this university had a hard schedule to meet this fall against universities ranging from 400 to 1,500 students. To meet this issue Sewanee's football squad numbered 51—51 out of a possible 100. At the same ratio the squads of Harvard and Michigan would be 3,000 and Columbia would have 5,000 candidates to pick from.

Sewance also answers the charge that only a small proportion of a student body goes in for football. Fifty-one per cent is a sufficient reply in this one case.

THE AWARD.

If a laurel award—or a chaplet of wild blossoms—is to be given the athlete responsible for the greatest 1914 sensation in sport, there can be but one selection. The scattering few may support Maughton, Stallings, Hardwick, Cobb, McLoughlin or Oulmet, but the vast majority will fall in back of Charley Herzog, who was able to last longer than one year as a Cincinnati manager. In comparison with this redoubtable and record-breaking feat, and the magic thereof, all other events of the year soon drift from memory.

LATE PLAYS WORTH SEEING.

"A Pair of White Stockings," by E. T. Collins.
"So Much for So Much," by Walter Johnson.

"Teams to be allowed to carry only twenty-one big league players." But has any one ever seen a club with twenty-one big league players? Or with half that number?

FIRST AND THIRD BASEMEN WILL PUT HERZOG IN RACE

CINCINNATI, Dec. 21—Charlie Herzog frankly says that a great deal of the Reds' prospects for 1915 will depend upon the development of two men—also that these two will have to be developed in both branches of the game—offensive and defensive. In other words, the Reds can not succeed unless they have a first and third baseman, both able to hit heavily as well as defend their positions. The team batted very feebly during the season of 1914. Heavy-hitting outfielders, who form the slugging force of nearly all clubs, are scarce; few of them seem obtainable, and the Reds don't seem to find any. Most clubs can sacrifice infield batting power in favor of a stone-wall defense, because the outfield wallopers will make good its weakness. Not so with the Reds. The Cincinnati outfield is shy on hitting strength; there seems small chance that there will be much reinforcement, and the infield will simply have to make up the deficit. Hence it is absolutely necessary that the first and third basemen should be hitters as well as reliable fielders—which makes Herzog's task at Alexandria doubly wearisome.

There is no need to worry about the gents who will cover second and short, inasmuch as H. Groh and C. Herzog have already shown that they can belt that ball with profuse vitality. As to the first baseman: The club has a flock of them, but not one of the flock showed enough batting ability to break a pane of glass. Take that back—they might break a pane of glass, but they couldn't dent a pound of butter stood just behind the glass. Fred Mollwitz, second edition of Long John Reilly, can reach afar, gather them no matter where they come, play that first base like a Donohue, and makes no more bone plays or slow mistakes than are natural for a young and inexperienced performer. But Mr. Mollwitz hit only .160; and where does a man who bats like that get off at, anyhow? Herzog firmly believes that Mollwitz can hit, and that he can't help learning how to hit—hence the standard-bearer of the 07th Silesian Guards will be given every chance to show the goods.

GRAHAM IS WEIGHED IN DISPLAYS.

Dawson Graham, a burly young man who looks the part of a big leaguer, began to bat just as the season ended, and closed up the books with a percentage of .340. The question before the house —and one which Herzog said was puzzling him at the time: Was Mr. Graham just striking his natural stride or were the pitchers taking it easy, with nothing to gain by working? What handicaps the large Graham Gem is his apparent thickness in the time of need—such fashion as to even up this

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

The Real Estate Field

Number of Trades in Residence Property — Lively Business in Real Estate Loans — Several Big Deals Are Pending — Christmas Holidays — Lease Negotiations On for Prominent Central Property

Notwithstanding the near approach of the Christmas holidays, quite a number of real estate sales in residence sections went to record Monday, and there was a lively business in real estate loans.

The market so far as central and semi-central property are concerned is expected to be rather quiet for a week or more on account of the festivities of the season.

A number of substantial deals are pending, however, and probably will be closed immediately after the holidays.

RECORD BREAKING GINNERS HAD NO EFFECT ON COTTON

Market in New York Closed 2 to 8 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Relatively easy trade appeared to encourage a renewal of local bear pressure in cotton at the opening, but first prices were 6 points lower to 1 point higher, late deliveries being relatively steady. The market was without any special influence. Ginning for the remainder of the season must be the largest percentage of the crop on record if the final out-turn is to approximate the government's estimate, but weather conditions have been unfavorable during the last ginning, which may have contributed operations to some extent. There was some European buying here around the opening figures and scattering investment demand, but prices eased off another point or two after the first hour, remaining.

Many buying orders made their appearance and offerings were well absorbed. Half an hour after the opening the trading centered from 5 to 7 points under Saturday's close.

At the lowest of the morning prices were 4 to 8 points down. Brokers reported renewed buying for German account and investment buying for the estate. At noon prices were unchanged to 2 points up compared with last week's finals.

BIG DECREASE IN VISIBLE SUPPLY ADVANCED WHEAT

Wheat Closed 5-8 to 1 5-8c Higher—Corn, Oats, Pork, Lard and Sides Strong.

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—Outlook for a big decrease of local stock and of a heavy falling off in the United States total supply today caused a rise in wheat. Cash and December opened 1c to 5c up, then rose all the way from 1⅝c to 2⅝c, compared with Saturday night. The market was without any special influence. Ginning for the remainder of the season must be the largest percentage of the crop on record if the final out-turn is to approximate the government's estimate, but weather conditions have been unfavorable during the last ginning, which may have contributed operations to some extent. There was some European buying here around the opening figures and scattering investment, demand, but prices eased off another point or two after the first hour, remaining.

Corn's strength was mainly owing to the wheat bulge. Opened from a shade to a quarter higher, followed by much higher figures all round.

Corn related somewhat on wheat's force beck. Closed ⅜ to ⅝ lower to ⅝@1⅛ net advance.

Oats climbed with other cereals.

Commission houses were heavy buyers of provisions and carried the market up in almost as quick time as grain.

NEWLANDS BILL CONFAB AROUSES MUCH INTEREST

President and Members of Cabinet Will Discuss Proposed Commission

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—In congressional circles today the outcome of a conference at the White House tonight between President Wilson, members of his cabinet and Senator Newlands regarding the Newlands proposal for the creation of a commission to control federal activity in waterway improvements, was being awaited with interest. Upon its result depends whether or not the administration shall seek action at this session of congress on the plan for such a commission.

Those who had been invited to discuss with the president the advisability of throwing the influence of the administration behind the proposal included in addition to Mr. Newlands, Secretaries Lane, Redfield, Houston and Garrison. The cabinet members were to outline to the conference the results of an inquiry conducted by them, at the request of the president, into Senator Newlands' plan for abolishing the present method of making river and harbor appropriations. President Wilson already had approved the Newlands plan in principle and Chairman Sparkman, of the house rivers and harbors committee, is understood to favor the idea.

It is expected that an effort will be made to secure the adoption of an amendment to the rivers and harbors bill now pending in the house to provide for the creation of the proposed commission. Senator Newlands has announced his intention of insisting upon action when the measure reached the senate.

COLD CONTRACTED AT FUNERAL CAUSES DEATH

News reached Atlanta Sunday of the death in Washington of G. T. Bruffey, brother of Edward C. Bruffey, a well known newspaper man of Atlanta. Mr. Bruffey was a resident of Washington and was employed in the government printing office. He was 57 years old.

Surviving him are his wife; one son; his sister, Mrs. Laura Trent, of Lynchburg, Va., and his brother, of Atlanta.

Mr. Bruffey's death was the result of a cold which he contracted while attending the funeral of his mother on December 9.

The funeral services will be held in Harrisonburg, Va. On account of illness Edward C. Bruffey will not be able to attend.

AGREED VERDICT FOR $100 FOR INJURIES

A consent verdict of $100 and costs was granted John Paul Wigington, fourteen years olds, against A. L. Belle Isle in Judge W. D. Ellis' branch of the superior court Monday. Wigington sued for $10,000 damages for a broken leg, alleged to have been caused by being run over by a Belle Isle taxi.

land has specialized in "two-and-six" plum puddings, each in its stone jar—one pudding to a soldier. They need but to be steamed in a camp kettle—which for the most part began life as an oil can—and then eaten with what sauce the soldier may find. Ogilvy says there isn't a private at the front who has not been assured of a bit of brandy to set blazing over his sweetmeat.

"Not," said he, judicially, "but what it seems a sinful waste of guid brandy."

Germany seems—so far as the Berlin windows showed—to run to roast geese and sausages. Those viands seem to be particularly adapted to the German digestion. Wounded men convalesce on wurst. Very large, very rich, cakes were also being baked for the delectation of the military tooth. In France dainties seem to be favored for the fighters, together with most excellent pates. The French stay-at-homes may live, day in and day out, on soup and coarse bread. But each French man and French woman has been able to send some delicacy to a friend at the front. Nor have the other practical needs of the men been forgotten.

One would think that the exposed Scotch knee is in need of protection. But it is in Berlin that one finds "knie warmers" for sale—a stockinet contrivance which may be pulled on over the middle joint of the leg. Berlin, too, seems to have a fancy for very heavy woollen socks and sleeping helmets of prodigious thickness. France runs to underclothing, perhaps because the variety furnished by the war office is said to be rather more cheap than warm. England specializes in heavy jerseys, and believes in blankets rather than in the sleeping bags which German giftgivers have pinned their faith to.

GEORGIA CONGRESSMEN FAVOR AMENDED RULE

Explain Action in Changing Vote on Postoffice Appropriation

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 21.—Congressmen Bartlett, Lee, Vinson and Edwards have no apologies for changing their votes on the postoffice appropriation rule. Sixty Democrats in all changed their votes and Chairman Moon of the postoffice committee accused them of being influenced by the railroads. As a matter of fact they opposed the rule because it sought to reduce the salaries of the postmasters and to abolish rural carriers by letting out mail delivery on rural routes to the lowest bidder. When the rule was finally amended on Saturday so as to take care of the postmasters and rural carriers the four Georgia congressmen voted for it.

VINSON IS FOR POTTLE, AND NOT FOR BARTLETT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.

Editor of The Atlanta Journal:

Please correct the error in the report from Washington to the effect that I had indorsed Judge Bartlett for district court judgeship. I did not call to see the president in the interest of Judge Bartlett. I am supporting Joe Pottle, and if the bill passes will then see the president in his behalf. I have not discussed his appointment with the president.

Yours truly,
CARL VINSON.
